

PERMANENCY PLANNING SERVICES POLICY, PROTOCOL, AND GUIDANCE

Purpose

Permanency Planning Services are provided to children who must be separated from their own parents or caretakers when they are unable or unwilling to provide adequate protection and care. As a result, the child enters the custody of a North Carolina county child welfare services agency. When this happens, the county child welfare services agency has legal custody and/or placement responsibility, whether the child has been removed from their home, and regardless of the type of placement.

County child welfare custody must not be considered until reasonable efforts have been made to preserve a child's safety, health, and well-being in their own home. County child welfare agencies are required to provide services to preserve or reunify families until parental rights have been terminated by the juvenile court.

When county child welfare custody is necessary, it is the responsibility of the county child welfare services agency to ensure the child remains in its custody for the shortest time possible. Permanency Planning Services require a thorough assessment of the child and family's needs and careful planning prior to and throughout a child's experience in county child welfare custody.

Permanency Planning Services must be provided to any child in the custody or placement responsibility of a county child welfare services agency.

Permanency Planning Services include but are not limited to:

- Careful planning and decision making with the family about placement, when necessary, and preparing the child, the child's family, and the foster family for separation and placement, including developing a family time and contact (visitation) agreement;
- Assessing children's needs to ensure appropriate placement and services;
- Arranging and monitoring a placement appropriate to the child's needs;
- Involving the kinship network to provide planning, placement, and other support for the child and family;
- Assessing family strengths and needs to determine the appropriate plan for service;
- Developing and arranging community-based services to support the child and family;
- Collaborating with other community service providers working with the family to ensure continuity of services and to prevent duplication of services;
- Referring the child and family to needed services, including clinical treatment;
- Collaborating with educational agencies to ensure school stability for the child and that all factors relating to the child's best interest are considered in determining the child's educational setting; all appropriate educational services are provided to the child; and documentation of educational planning is in the case file;
- Providing ongoing assessment to determine risk to the child and to guide the case planning process;
- Working with the family to develop and implement the Permanency Planning Family Services Agreement;

- Helping the family meet the Permanency Planning Family Services Agreement objectives by providing information, instruction, guidance, and mentoring related to parenting skills, and by monitoring and updating the agreement with the family;
- Providing case planning and management;
- Concurrent permanency planning with the family to develop alternative options to provide a permanent home for a child should reunification fail;
- Supervising the placement to ensure the child receives proper care during placement;
- Preparing for and participating in court proceedings;
- Preparing for and facilitating Child and Family Team /Permanency Planning Review meetings;
- Providing transportation for children in county child welfare agency custody when needed and not otherwise available, including visits with parents, siblings, and relatives;
- Providing LINKS services to assist older youth in learning life skills necessary to make a successful transition from foster care to living on their own;
- Ensuring placements across state lines comply with the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children (ICPC);
- Recruiting and assessing relatives and other kin as potential caregivers;
- Involving foster parents in planning and decision making for children in county child welfare agency custody;
- Preparing children for adoptive placements and maintaining life books; and
- Maintaining the permanency planning case record and thorough documentation of case activities.

Foster care can be defined as a situation in which, for a period, a child lives with and is cared for by people who are not the child’s parents. There are different forms of foster care, including but not limited to:

- Family foster homes,
- Therapeutic foster homes, and
- Residential care.

For child welfare, “foster care” refers to children in the legal custody of a county child welfare services agency; however, a child may also be placed in foster care by their parent without involvement of a county child welfare services agency.

In order to keep children in foster care connected to their family, it is important to consider the child’s culture. Child welfare defines culture as “a set of learned values, beliefs, customs, traditions, and practices shared by a group of people and can be passed from one generation to another. This can include, but is not limited to: religion, ethnic customs, traditions of family and community.”

Federal and state law is intended to provide protections for children in foster care, who need safety and permanency, and for their families to ensure that their legal rights are maintained. N.C.G.S. § 108A-14 states the County Director of Social Services has the responsibility and the duty to investigate reports of child abuse, neglect, and dependency; to take appropriate action to protect such children and to accept children for placement in foster homes and to supervise placements for as long as such children require foster care. N.C.G.S. § 108A-48 states the Department of Health and Human Services is authorized to establish a State Foster Care Benefits Program with appropriations by the General Assembly for the purpose of providing assistance to children who are placed in foster care facilities by county departments of social services in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Social Services Commission. Such appropriations, together with county contributions for this purpose, shall be expended to provide for the costs of keeping children in foster care facilities. N.C.G.S. § 7B-505.1 states that unless the court orders otherwise, when a juvenile is placed in the non-secure custody of a county department of social services, the director may arrange for, provide, or consent to any of the following: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (1) Routine medical and dental care or treatment. Treatment, including but not limited to treatment for common pediatric illnesses and injuries that require prompt intervention. (2) Emergency medical, surgical, psychiatric, psychological, or mental health care or treatment. (3) Testing and evaluation in exigent circumstances. It further states the court may authorize the director to consent to a Child Medical Evaluation upon written findings. In addition, the director shall obtain authorization from the juvenile's parent, guardian, or custodian to consent to all care or treatment not covered above, except that the court may authorize the director to provide consent after a hearing at which the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that the care, treatment, or evaluation requested is in the juvenile's

CASE STAFFING / TWO-LEVEL DECISION MAKING / ROLE OF SUPERVISOR The county child welfare supervisor and assigned county child welfare worker must staff each permanency planning case: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • At least once a month throughout the life of the case; and • Whenever there is a change in circumstance that impacts safety and/or permanency of the child. At least monthly, staffing must cover but not be limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Safety, well-being, and permanence; • Family’s strengths and needs; • Discussion of juvenile’s placement if not placed with siblings and efforts that have been made to place the juvenile siblings together; • Family’s progress; and • Review of the ongoing family and collateral contacts. Two-level decisions/reviews must occur on every permanency planning case at the following times: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • At the time of the development and required reviews of the Permanency Planning Family Services Agreement; • At required PPR meetings; • Whenever there is a potential placement disruption and/or placement change; • Whenever there is a change in circumstance that impacts the safety or risk to a child(ren); • The child is an abducted or runaway child; • Whenever there is a change in circumstance that impacts permanency; and • Prior to any court review or permanency planning hearing. 	CASE STAFFING Case staffing can occur in various forms. The focus of case staffing is to ensure that the case county child welfare worker follows North Carolina child welfare policy, addresses child and family needs, and monitors: risk, safety, and family progress. Supervision provides coaching and support to the county child welfare worker. Achieving these goals may be accomplished through an office meeting but could also occur when a supervisor attends a home visit or other family meeting with a county child welfare worker. Participation in the case CFT/PPR meeting by both the case worker and the supervisor could be considered as a staffing during that month. TWO-LEVEL DECISION MAKING / ROLE OF SUPERVISOR Two-level decisions for Permanency Planning Services cases should involve the assigned county child welfare worker and that worker’s supervisor. However, there may be circumstances that require another county child welfare worker or another supervisor or a higher-level manager in the agency to participate in the decision making. The child welfare supervisor should review every permanency planning electronic NC FAST record at least quarterly and prior to case closure.

RELATIVE NOTIFICATION

Legal Basis
Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of 2008, P.L. 110-351 requires county child welfare agencies to exercise due diligence to notify all close adult relatives of a child (including any other adult relatives suggested by the parents) within 30 days of the child’s removal from the parent of their options to participate in the care and placement of the child. N.C.G.S. 7B-505 (b) Requires the department of social services to use due diligence to identify and notify adult relatives and other persons with legal custody of a sibling of the juvenile within 30 days after the initial order removing custody. The county social services agency must file with the court all information regarding attempts made to identify and notify adult relatives of the juvenile and persons with legal custody of a sibling of the juvenile. In placing a juvenile in nonsecure custody under this section, the court shall first consider whether a relative of the juvenile is willing and able to provide proper care and supervision of the juvenile in a safe home. If the court finds that the relative is willing and able to provide proper care and supervision in a safe home, then the court shall order placement of the juvenile with the relative unless the court finds that placement with the relative would be contrary to the best interests of the juvenile.

Domestic Violence and Permanency Planning

Protocol – What you must do

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AND PERMANENCY PLANNING

Assessment for the presence of domestic violence and its impact on the safety of children must occur throughout Permanency Planning Services.

Careful consideration must be given to cases involving domestic violence when:

- Developing the Permanency Planning Family Services Agreement;
- Developing and implementing the Family Time and Contact Plan;
- Scheduling and holding CFT Meetings and PPR meetings;
- Planning Shared Parenting meetings; and
- Assessing the family for reunification.

For more information, please see “Domestic Violence” in Cross Function Topics in the NC Child Welfare manual.

Human Trafficking

Protocol – What you must do

HUMAN TRAFFICKING

A child who is sold, traded, or exchanged for sex or labor is an abused and neglected juvenile, regardless of the relationship between the victim and the perpetrator. County child welfare agencies must continue to assess the safety and well-being of children during the provision of Permanency Planning Services, including children who are suspected or confirmed to be victims of human trafficking.

County child welfare agencies must document in the electronic NC FAST records and determine appropriate services for children who are believed to be or are at risk of being victims of human trafficking.

County child welfare workers must follow North Carolina child welfare policy and practice on Human Trafficking.

For additional information see “Human Trafficking” in Cross Function Topics in the NC Child Welfare manual.

If the child remains in the home, the county child welfare services agency must develop and monitor a Safety Plan that ensures safety until the case decision is made.	PREVENTING PLACEMENT DISRUPTION The county child welfare services agency should have a plan to manage placement disruption. Documenting the disruption in both the child’s record and the foster parent’s record can provide valuable information as to what kinds of behaviors the foster parent cannot handle. This analysis can guide future placement decisions, as well as identify training needs of foster parents. One of the best tools to manage placement disruption is to plan for placement supports such as regular and consistent respite care. The county child welfare worker should have sufficient contact with the placement provider to know when conditions exist that could lead to disruptions. Intensive Family Preservation Services, as available, are also a resource for preventing placement disruptions.

PLACEMENT WITH SIBLINGS
Legal Basis
The Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of 2008, P.L. 110-351 requires that agencies make reasonable efforts to place siblings removed from their home in the same foster care, adoptive, or guardianship placement, unless it is contrary to the safety or well-being of any of the siblings to do so. N.C. G.S. 7B-903.1 (c1) states if juvenile siblings are removed from the home and placed in the nonsecure custody of a county department of social services, the director shall make reasonable efforts to place the juvenile siblings in the same home. The director is not required to make reasonable efforts if there is documentation that placing the juvenile siblings together would be contrary to any of the sibling’s safety or well-being. If, after making reasonable efforts, the director is unable to place the juvenile siblings in the same home, the director shall make reasonable efforts to provide frequent sibling visitation and ongoing interaction between the juvenile siblings, unless the director documents that frequent visitation or other ongoing interaction between the juvenile siblings would be contrary to the safety or well-being.

This should occur on an ongoing basis. The licensed mental health provider should also provide input if there continues to be a safety threat preventing the siblings from reuniting in the same home. County child welfare agencies should provide documentation regarding the therapeutic recommendations in the case record.

Legal Basis	Definition of Kinship
N.C.G.S. 7B-505 rewritten states: A juvenile may be placed in a temporary residential placement in: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A licensed foster home or a home otherwise authorized by law to provide such care; or • A facility operated by a county child welfare services agency; or • Any other home or facility, including a relative's home approved by the court and designated in the order. The statute further states that in placing a juvenile in non-secure custody, the court shall first consider whether a relative of the juvenile is willing and able to provide proper care and supervision of the juvenile in a safe home. placement with the relative would be contrary to the best interests of the juvenile. If the court does not place the juvenile with a relative, the court may consider whether other persons with legal custody of a sibling of the juvenile are willing and able to provide proper care and supervision of the juvenile in a safe home. This placement must be approved by the court and designated in the court order. Placement with non-relative kin and former appropriate foster parents must be considered after all relatives and any legal custodians of a sibling have been excluded. If the home is assessed to be appropriate, placement must be approved by the court and designated in the court order.

The court shall also consider the Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978 and the Multiethnic Placement Act of 1994 (MEPA), as amended in 1996 by the Interethnic Placement provisions (MEPA-IEP) as they apply. The court may order the department to notify the juvenile's state-recognized tribe of the need for non-secure custody to locate relatives or non-relative kin for placement. The court may order placement of the juvenile with non-relative kin if the court finds the placement is in the juvenile's best interest.

the family and community resources provide emotional and tangible support to the care provider.

A kinship care placement can be a licensed or unlicensed home of a relative or non-relative kin.

N.C.G.S. § 7B-101(15a) defines non-relative kin as an individual who has a substantial relationship with the child.

KINSHIP CARE (RELATIVE AND NON-RELATIVE KIN) County child welfare agencies must strive to strengthen and preserve the family. Parents must be given a reasonable opportunity to identify and come together with their kinship network to plan for and provide safety, care, nurture, and supervision for the child. The county child welfare services agency must assess the suggested resource to ensure the child will receive appropriate care and must give preference to an adult relative or other kin when determining placement, provided that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The placement is assessed by the county child welfare services agency to be in the best interest of the child in terms of both safety and nurture; and • The prospective kinship care provider and the living situation are assessed and determined to meet relevant standards. The agency must first address available and appropriate relatives and whether a relative is willing and able to provide proper care and supervision for the child. If the home is assessed to be appropriate, placement must be approved by the court and designated in the court order. Adoptive parents of siblings are not considered relatives of the legal child; however, they must be considered in the identification and notification of individuals who have legal custody of a sibling. Placement with a legal custodian of a sibling must be considered after all relatives have been excluded. If that home is assessed to be appropriate, placement must be approved by the court and designated in the court order. Placement with non-relative kin and former appropriate foster parents must be considered after all relatives and any legal custodians of a siblings have been excluded. If the home is assessed to be appropriate, placement must be approved by the court and designated in the court order.	Whether licensed as a foster home or not, kinship care providers should be valued and treated as partners with the birth family and the county child welfare services agency. This includes notifying relatives and non-relative kin providing care for a child of any court review or hearing to be held about the child and of their opportunity to be heard in court regarding the juvenile’s well-being. County child welfare workers should use family-centered practice tools, such as CFT meetings. CFT meetings provide a model for engaging the kinship network at the earliest stages of agency involvement. The family’s understanding incorporates a historical perspective of the problems faced by the family, as well as the efforts to remedy those problems. They can confront the problems and to help provide realistic supports to help the child and their family of origin move toward healing. The county child welfare services agency should engage with the members of the kinship network and share responsibility for planning. This helps the family, the relatives, and other kin to take ownership of the family’s needs, to bring their own resources to address those needs, to reduce the likelihood of child placement outside the kinship network, and to provide a system of oversight to the family’s progress in the resolution of the issues.

The first 30 days of permanency planning are critical in the child’s transition and to the family's engagement in the change process. Assessment and planning are the activities that lay the foundation for the future work with the family and are important tasks in the initial placement process. Assessment and planning should involve collaborative efforts by all the parties involved with the family. The county child welfare worker should obtain as much information about the child and family as soon as possible so appropriate resources may be chosen and the county child welfare worker can help the placement provider meet the child's needs. The placement provider should be provided any known information to help better care for children, including health and behavioral health history, disability, exposure to trauma, and educational needs.
REQUIRED SERVICES FOR CHILDREN For children who are placed in out-of-home placements, county child welfare agencies must provide the following services: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Evaluate and supervise the placement of children to ensure they are receiving proper care; • Face-to-face visit within 7 days of any placement change; • Make, at a minimum, monthly visits with children in foster care placement; • Ensure visitation occurs for children and parents to visit each other; • Ensure visitation occurs for siblings to visit each other, if placed in separate placements; • Ensure the child’s well-being needs are met, including emotional and developmental needs; • Engage children in the planning process of the case, including participation in CFT meetings, PPR meetings, and developing the Permanency Planning Family Services Agreement; • Assist children in mitigating the feelings of grief and loss that result from removal from the home; • Ensure children receive all needed evaluations, educational services, medical care and psychological treatment services through referral to other agencies and providers; 	Special attention should be given to changes affecting the relationship between the worker and the child/youth, such as changes in frequency of contact, vacation, transfer, or termination of contact through the worker leaving the agency. Changes of the county child welfare worker may bring up the child or youth’s fears of separation and abandonment. These fears can lead to disturbances in behavior and subsequent consequences in their relationships with placement providers, teachers, friends, and others. Children need and deserve adequate preparation for changes in service delivery and need to understand why changes are taking place. The child’s participation in team planning can help reduce the anxiety both the child and family experiences when individual county child welfare workers leave the agency. Children should be given an opportunity to discuss openly their feelings about a placement. This exchange should occur prior to a placement and during the placement. Often the county child welfare worker is the only person the child feels they can talk to.

LIFE BOOKS County child welfare agencies must create and maintain a life book for each child in an out-of-home placement. The child’s life book must be initiated within 30 days of the child entering custody and updated on an ongoing basis. The following are items that must be in each child’s life book: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A copy of a certified birth certificate (or date and time of birth, location of birth, and weight and length at birth); • Schools/daycare centers the child has attended; • Medical information, including immunizations, diseases, and allergies; 	Creating a life book is a process that continues for the duration of the child’s journey to permanency. The life book is one page, one picture, and one story at a time. It can start in the present moment and proceed forward with future events. Early in the work with the child and family, the county child welfare worker should begin building the child’s life book by taking and procuring photographs of the child, birth family, and foster family. Gradually, prior history should be collected from the birth parents (such as pictures and stories) regarding the child to be placed in the life book. Involving the birth parents demonstrates what the child had prior to being placed in an out-of-home placement as valuable, and imperative to maintain as a part of their life. Children will continue to need physical documentation of their histories throughout their time in county child welfare services agency custody. It is important to allow the child to personalize their life book by allowing the child to design and capture their story and/or memories that connects to the pictures in the book. The creation of the pages of the life book can be either digital or traditional or a combination of the two. The traditional life book can be a three-ring photo album or an expandable scrapbook. REQUIRED SERVICES FOR PLACEMENT PROVIDERS All children who are in the custody and placement responsibility of a county child welfare services agency must be in a placement licensed by the state, or in a relative or non-relative kinship care placement specifically approved by the court. This includes placement with unlicensed relatives. County child welfare agencies must provide the following services to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Monitor the level of care offered in the placement to ensure the child’s needs are being met; • Provide consistent and ongoing support to the placement provider and facilitate the resolution of problems that occur while the child is placed in their home; • Education and information regarding shared parenting; • Education and information regarding the Reasonable and Prudent Parent Standard; • Work cooperatively with the placement provider to help the child overcome the trauma of placement; and • Engage in discussions that are supportive of the placement provider/agency relationship, • The director of the county child welfare agency must make a timely request to the clerk to calendar each review or permanency hearing at a session of court scheduled for the hearing of juvenile matters and the clerk must give 15 days’ notice of the hearing to the person providing care for the juvenile as provided for in G.S. 7B-906.1. 	The State recognizes the importance of foster parents and kinship parents in the vital role of supporting children and families experiencing foster care. When children are placed in the custody of a county department of social services, families are almost immediately integrated into a team, including child welfare workers, resource parents, a guardian ad litem, attorneys, and others who are working together to address the issues leading to the foster care. The county child welfare agency should include the person providing care for the juvenile when they make the request to the clerk to calendar each review or permanency hearing so that the clerk will know who to notice for the hearing. Placement providers should be informed by the Clerk of Court of periodic reviews of the juvenile case of a child in foster care at least 15 days before each review, and the placement provider can provide input, verbal or written, during periodic reviews of any information that may be relevant to a child's best interests so that the court may use that information in forming its opinion on the case. The county child welfare agency should provide verbal notification to the placement provider of upcoming court hearings should they not receive notice from the Clerk of Court. The notification should occur during monthly home visits and documentation should reflect that the conversation occurred.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE County child welfare agencies must ensure every child in foster care, who has attained the minimum age for compulsory school attendance under state law, is enrolled as a full-time elementary or secondary school student or has completed secondary school. “Elementary or secondary school student” is defined to include a child that is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Enrolled in an institution which provides elementary or secondary education in compliance with state law; • Instructed in elementary or secondary education at home in accordance with state law on home schools; • Participating in an independent study program in elementary or secondary education that is administered by the local school or school district and is in accordance with state law; or • Incapable of attending school on a full-time basis due to the medical condition of the child, which incapability is supported by regularly updated information in the child’s case plan.
EVERY STUDENT SUCCEEDS ACT
Legal Basis
The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) (P.L.114-95) reauthorized the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) and includes new provisions that promote educational stability for children in foster care. Effective December 10, 2016, these provisions complement those in the Fostering Connections Act and require state educational agencies and local educational agencies to work with child welfare agencies to ensure the educational stability of children in foster care. In particular 42 U.S.C. 671 (a)(30) and 42 U.S.C. 675(1)(G) require both county child welfare agencies and local education agencies to collaborate to ensure school changes are minimized, and children in care who do change schools are promptly enrolled. ESSA also removed “awaiting foster care placement” from the McKinney Vento Act definition of homeless. ESSA requires assurances that children enroll or remain in their school of origin unless a determination is made that it is not in their best interest. That determination must be based on all factors relating to the child’s best interest, including consideration of the appropriateness of the current educational setting, and the proximity to the school in which the child is enrolled at the time of the foster care placement. For child welfare county agencies, this requires:

N.C.G.S. §7B-903.1 states that when a child is in the custody of the county child welfare services agency, the county director may arrange for, provide, or consent to decisions about matters that are generally made by a juvenile’s custodian, including but not limited to educational decisions and consenting to the sharing of the juvenile’s educational information, without obtaining parental consent.

County child welfare agencies are entitled to all educational records of a child in non-secure custody through the Uninterrupted Scholars Act (P.L. 112-278).

Each child’s privacy and confidentiality are ensured by the federal Educational Records Privacy Act (FERPA) (20 U.S.C § 1232g; 34 CFR Part 99) and the confidentiality of information provisions in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) (20 U.S.C. §§ 1400-1444).

Out-of-Home Placement Services: Parent/Child Visitation/Family Time

PARENT/CHILD VISITATION/FAMILY TIME

Legal Basis
N.C.G.S. 7B-905.1 states an order that removes custody of a juvenile from a parent, guardian, or custodian or that continues the juvenile's placement outside the home shall provide for visitation that is in the best interests of the juvenile consistent with the juvenile's health and safety, including no visitation. The court may specify in the order conditions under which visitation may be suspended. If the juvenile is placed or continued in the custody or placement responsibility of a county department of social services, the court may order the director to arrange, facilitate, and supervise a visitation plan expressly approved or ordered by the court. The plan shall indicate the minimum frequency and length of visits and whether the visits shall be supervised. Unless the court orders otherwise, the director shall have discretion to determine who will supervise visits when supervision is required, to determine the location of visits, and to change the day and time of visits in response to scheduling conflicts, illness of the child or party, or extraordinary circumstances. A parent's positive result from a drug screen alone is insufficient to deny the parent court-ordered visitation with the juvenile. The director shall promptly communicate a limited and temporary change in the visitation schedule to the affected party. Any ongoing change in the visitation schedule shall be communicated to the party in writing and state the reason for the change. For parents with unsupervised visitation that have a positive result from a drug screen, the department of social services shall expeditiously file a motion for review and request that a hearing be scheduled within 30 days for the court to review the visitation plan to ensure the safety of the child. While the motion is pending, the director may temporarily impose supervision requirements to all or part of the visitation plan. The director shall promptly communicate the limited and temporary change in the visitation plan to the affected party. No motion or notice of hearing is required if a review or permanency planning hearing is already scheduled to be heard within 30 days of the imposed suspension requirement.

In many cases, the Family Time and Contact (Visitation) Plan will not be developed prior to the initial visit. It is important to prepare the parent(s)/caretaker(s) for the visit by discussing expectations, who will participate, and what is and is not appropriate for the visit. Family Time and Contact Plans should be addressed in every court hearing and reflected in every court order, particularly when unsupervised visits are considered.

Before visits can be limited or terminated, the agency must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify specific parental behaviors which are having a negative impact on the child; • Demonstrate the child’s difficulties are not a child’s normal anxiety response to parent-child visits, • Demonstrate that reasonable efforts have been made to explain to parents the implications of not working to improve visits; • Support for the decision through consultation with medical, psychiatric, or other appropriate professionals; and • Petition for a court order limiting visitation, even if parents agree with this plan. The agency must not withhold or cease court ordered visitation based on a parent’s substance use or a positive drug screen alone. If at the time visitation between the parent and the juvenile occurs, a parent is under the influence of drugs or alcohol and exhibits behavior that could create an unsafe environment for a child or the parent appears to be actively impaired during that visitation, the county agency may cancel that visit. Changes in the visitation plan as a result of the parent’s substance use must not occur unless there is an unsafe environment for the child. The agency must file a motion for review and request that a hearing be scheduled within 30 days when a parent with unsupervised visitation has a positive result from a drug screen.	County child welfare workers should think creatively about family time to make it a real tool for assessing families. Strategies for Creative Family Time <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Family time in the foster home: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Allows the parent to observe a positive approach to child care and allows the child to see all those who care for him/her as allies ○ Promotes a sense of partnership between the foster parents and birth parents and is a potential permanent resource for the future • Family time at school or in day care: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Most children would welcome lunch with their parents, which is something most schools allow and encourage ○ Allows parents to learn about this important aspect of their child’s life and meet their child’s teacher or day care provider. • Include parents in regular appointments: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Participating in doctor or dentist appointments gives parents an opportunity to take responsibility for medical concerns and keeps them informed. ○ May reassure the child, who may be fearful about the appointment. • Take family time outside: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Parks, playgrounds, fast-food restaurants, and other places allow for family time that more closely resembles normal parent-child interaction. • Recruit volunteers and make them Family Time Specialists. While the motion is pending, the director may temporarily impose supervision requirements to all or part of the visitation plan. The director must promptly communicate the limited and temporary change in the visitation plan to all affected parties until the hearing. NOTE: county child welfare agencies must continue to have contact with the parent(s) even if visitation has ceased unless there has been a completion of termination of parental rights.	The agency should assess how the positive drug screen impacts the parent and child with unsupervised visitation and assist the parent with addressing any needs identified if the county agency chooses not to alter the visitation plan prior to the hearing. Out-of-Home Placement Services: Sibling Visitation

SIBLING VISITATION

Legal Basis
The Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of 2008, P.L. 110-351 requires agencies make reasonable efforts to facilitate visitation or ongoing contacts with siblings that cannot be placed together, unless it is contrary to the safety or well-being of any of the siblings to do so.
Protocol – What you must do	Guidance – How you should do it
Siblings who are not in the same placement must have frequent and ongoing visitation unless it is contrary to the siblings’ well-being or safety. Sibling visitation includes visits between any sibling, including biological and/or step-siblings with whom they have a significant bond, and whom they are not currently placed with. This also includes adult siblings of the child.	Preserving connections between siblings is critical for children who have been removed from their family. Sibling bonds are among the strongest humans ever experience. They are emotionally powerful and critically important not only in childhood but over the course of a lifetime. Sibling relationships can provide a significant source of continuity, which allows children to maintain a positive sense of identity as well as knowledge of their family history. It also keeps them connected with their cultural background. When siblings are placed separately, placement providers should be encouraged to plan for and host sibling visits and activities. When appropriate, county child welfare workers should ensure that siblings are informed of significant life events that

Agency Plan for Abducted and Runaway Children

AGENCY PLAN FOR ABDUCTED AND RUNAWAY CHILDREN

Legal Basis
The Preventing Sex Trafficking and Strengthening Families Act (P.L. 113-183) requires agencies to identify, document, and determine appropriate services for any child or youth in the placement, care, or supervision of a county child welfare services agency who is at-risk of becoming a sex trafficking victim or who is a sex trafficking victim. Agencies must report immediately (no later than 24 hours) to law enforcement children or youth who the agency identifies as being a sex trafficking victim. Agencies must also have protocols in place to locate children missing from foster care, determine the factors that lead to the child's being absent from foster care, and determine the child's experiences while absent from foster care, including whether the child is a sex trafficking victim. Agencies must report immediately (no later than 24 hours) to law enforcement any missing or abducted children for entry into the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) database, and to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. Each county child welfare services agency must follow the policy below for reporting, locating, and returning children missing, runaway, or abducted from foster care.
Definitions
Abduction of Children – Per N.C.G.S. § 14-41 any person who, without legal justification or defense, abducts or induces any minor child who is at least four years younger than the person, to leave any person, agency, or institution lawfully entitled to the child's custody, placement, or care. High Risk Child – The missing child's safety is severely compromised for one or more of the following reasons: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The child is believed to be or has been abducted; • The child is believed to be in the company of adults who could endanger their safety; • The child is younger than 13 years of age and/or is believed to be out of the zone of safety for their age or developmental stage; • The child has one or more health conditions that, if not treated daily, will place the child at severe risk; • The child is drug dependent, including prescribed medication and/or illegal substances, and the dependency is life-threatening; • The child has severe emotional problems that, if not treated, will place the child at severe risk; • The child has a developmental disability that impairs the child's ability to care for him/herself; • The child is pregnant and/or parenting and the infant/child is believed to be with their parent(s); • The child is missing more than 24 hours before being reported to law enforcement; • The child is believed to be in a life-threatening situation; • The child's absence is inconsistent with their established patterns of behavior and the deviation is not readily explained; • The child is known or believed to be a victim of human trafficking (sex trafficking, labor trafficking, or both); and/or, • Other circumstances involved in the disappearance that would cause a reasonable person to conclude that the child should be considered "at imminent risk."

Kidnapping – Per N.C.G.S. § 14-39 any person who shall unlawfully confine, restrain, or remove from one place to another, any other person 16 years of age or over without the consent of such person, or any other person under the age of 16 years without the consent of a parent or legal custodian of such person.

Missing Child – Per N.C.G.S. § 143B-1011, a juvenile as defined in N.C.G.S § 7B-101 whose location has not been determined, who has been reported as missing to a law enforcement agency, and whose parent’s, spouse’s, guardian’s, or legal custodian’s temporary or permanent residence is in North Carolina or is believed to be in North Carolina.

Missing Foster Child – A child who has either left voluntarily (ran away) or involuntarily (abduction, kidnapped, or lost), and cannot be accounted for by the agency responsible for their care and placement.

Runaway – A child who has voluntarily left their placement provider or home and whose whereabouts are either unknown by the child’s parent, guardian, custodian, caretaker, foster parent, or county child welfare worker or whose whereabouts are unknown by the child’s parent, guardian, custodian, caretaker, foster parent, or county child welfare worker but who maintains periodic contact with the county child welfare worker or others.

Information that must be shared with law enforcement includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The child or youth’s full name, aliases and nicknames, age and date of birth, social security number, driver’s license number (if applicable), and other biographical information; • A description of the child or youth (i.e., height, weight, hair color, eye color, skin color, braces, clothes worn, book bag, shoes, contact lenses or glasses, dentures, gold or silver teeth, any impairments [physical, hearing, speech, vision], moles, scars, body piercings, tattoos) and recent photographs; • Physical or psychological conditions, developmental delays, or any condition that may affect the ability of the child or youth to respond to environmental dangers; • Other factors of endangerment, such as young age, hazardous location, medical needs, disability, etc.; • Medication and/or history of suspected substance use/abuse; • A copy of the most recent court order granting legal custody of the child or youth and other relevant facts about the child or youth’s custody status; • Type of missing episode (if known), including runaway, family abduction, non-family abduction, or other; • When, where, and with whom the child or youth was last seen; • Possible method of travel (e.g., car, bicycle, public transportation, on foot); • Names and addresses of friends, relatives, present and former placement providers, including child care facilities/staff, and acquaintances; • Locations the child or youth is known to frequent; • Suspected destinations and accomplices; and • Prior disappearances and outcomes. 	Upon receipt of the release of information and the child’s photograph, NCMEC will publish the child’s photograph on its website and distribute posters of the child both locally and nationally. The child’s name and identifying information will be published with their photograph, but the child/youth will not be identified as a foster child in the legal custody or under the placement responsibility of the county child welfare services agency. Providing information to NCMEC, including the child’s photograph, DOES NOT violate North Carolina confidentiality laws and rules. It is important to inform law enforcement about any circumstances that could severely compromise the safety of a child or youth who is missing. These circumstances include anything that would fall in the definition of a high risk child, which includes the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The child has a developmental disability that impairs the child’s ability to care for him/herself; • The child is pregnant and/or parenting and the infant/child is believed to be with him/her; • The child is missing more than 24 hours before being reported to law enforcement; • The child is believed to be in a life-threatening situation; • The child’s absence is inconsistent with their established patterns of behavior and the deviation is not readily explained; • The child is known or believed to be a victim of human trafficking (sex trafficking, labor trafficking, or both); and/or • Other circumstances involved in the disappearance that would cause a reasonable person to conclude that the child should be considered “at imminent risk.”

If a child or youth is identified as “high risk,” this must be communicated to law enforcement. REQUIREMENTS FOR SUPERVISORS Upon notification that a child or youth is missing, the supervisor must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Within 24 hours, confirm the county child welfare worker has completed all the required reports and contacts as described above; • Assist the worker in developing and implementing a plan that contains specific strategies to locate the missing child or youth and assure the child and youth’s safety as quickly as possible; • Confirm that the plan is documented in the NC FAST electronic record and includes daily and weekly activities to locate the child; • Ensure that the plan is revised, as needed, to ensure progress is made toward locating the child and establishing their safety; • Meet with the worker on a weekly basis after the initial reporting requirements are completed; • If the child is high risk, obtain and review daily progress reports from the worker that include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Ongoing strategies and efforts to determine the child or youth’s whereabouts; ○ Contacts with law enforcement and others; ○ Additional steps taken to assist in finding the child; ○ A placement plan for when the child is located; and ○ Confirming the worker completes appropriate changes to the Child Placement and Payment Record. • Ensure all supervisory meetings are documented in the electronic record in NC FAST.

SEARCHING FOR MISSING CHILDREN AND YOUTH In addition to the steps described above, specialized interventions must be considered, depending on whether the child has been abducted, is missing, or is missing with periodic contacts with the worker. Abducted Children and Youth If the child is believed to have been abducted, the county child welfare services agency’s efforts to locate the child must focus on the child’s relationship with the abductor and the agency must work closely with law enforcement. In addition, the following must be completed on a weekly basis: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contact law enforcement to both provide and obtain any new information regarding the alleged/suspected abductor; • Contact the assigned NCMEC case manager; and • Contact relatives, previous caregivers, friends of the child or any other individuals in the child’s family or social support network to obtain new information on the suspected/alleged abductor and the child or youth. 	When a child is located, careful consideration should be given to their ongoing placement. When deciding whether to return the child or youth to the placement they were in before being reported as runaway or missing, the county child welfare worker should interview the caregiver and the child separately to determine why the child ran away. Workers should review reasons provided with a supervisor to determine if the reasons for running away are related to the placement itself. Workers and supervisors should determine whether placement stabilization or other services would be beneficial. If the child or youth was missing from care for another reason (i.e., they did not run away) county child welfare workers should carefully assess the factors associated with the child or youth’s disappearance and their experiences while absent from care to address possible safety and risk issues and plan for placement accordingly. If the child or youth has a history of running away or indicates that he or she will not accept any placement selected by the agency, the worker should discuss with the child or youth where he or she wants to live or what type of placement he or she is willing to accept. Such alternate placements may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A relative with whom the child is comfortable and has a relationship; • A former caregiver or another adult with whom the child has formed a relationship and with whom the child expresses a desire to be placed; • An independent transitional living arrangement, if appropriate; or • Reunification with the child’s parent(s). Any or all these options must meet certain requirements, depending on the placement type, including any necessary approval by the court.

Missing Children and Youth When a child’s whereabouts are unknown, and/or the circumstances of the child’s disappearance are unknown, the county child welfare worker must make a sustained effort to locate the child by contacting the following individuals, agencies, or organizations each week: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Local police, sheriff’s office, or other law enforcement agency working to locate the child or youth; • Local emergency shelters and homeless youth programs; • Most recent caregiver and any other caregivers with whom the child or youth is known to have had a close or long-term relationship; • Relatives, including the child’s parents and siblings; • Neighbors and landlord of the child’s last known address; • Close friends and classmates of the child, including any known boyfriends, girlfriends, or anyone else in the community with whom the child may have developed a significant relationship; • Teachers, counselors, and other school personnel from the school the child last attended if there is knowledge that the child had close relationships with persons at the school; • Employees of the county child welfare services agency or placement provider who may have knowledge of the possible location of the child or youth; • Probation offices, when appropriate; and • County juvenile or adult detention centers. • Initiate a CPS Alert

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Utilizing the child or youth’s PPR meetings to facilitate community service provision and collaboration to meet individual needs; and • Maintaining close communication with foster parents, group home staff, and GALs to assure that information is shared on a timely basis; In addition to these agency-level runaway prevention efforts, county child welfare agencies should engage in individualized, case-by-case runaway prevention strategies. This is particularly important if the agency identifies that a child or youth is at risk of running away from their placement or has a history of running away from their placements or previous caregivers (including their biological families). The following are runaway prevention strategies that can be utilized with all children and youth in county child welfare services agency custody and can be tailored for the specific needs of the individual: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Increase protective factors by ensuring foster parents and care providers are implementing the Reasonable and Prudent Parent Standard and that children and youth have regular opportunities to engage in age or developmentally-appropriate activities; • County child welfare workers should make efforts to provide a stable relationship with children and youth in county child welfare services agency custody through case planning, case management, and frequent visits; • County child welfare workers should assist children and youth in their personal, social, and emotional development while they are in foster care. This includes efforts to maintain their relationships with members of their own family and other persons while addressing problems they face because of placement; • County child welfare workers should provide referrals to counseling or other services for children and youth, as needed; and • The frequency and intensity of contact should be determined by the individual needs of the child or youth, but no less than monthly face-to-face contact. More frequent contacts with children and youth should be considered if there is a history of prior runaway events or if the child or youth would be at high-risk if they were to leave placement.

Shared Parenting

Legal Basis
North Carolina Administrative Code 70 E .1104 requires that foster parents shall develop partnerships with children and their parents or guardians, help children maintain and develop relationships that will keep them connected to their pasts, and help children placed in the home build a positive self-concept and positive family, cultural, and racial identity.
Policy
Foster parents must engage in shared parenting by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Developing partnerships with children and their parents or guardians; • Helping children maintain and develop relationships that will keep them connected to their pasts; and • Helping children placed out of their own home build a positive self-identity and positive family, cultural, and racial identity.
Protocol – What you must do
Guidance – How you should do it
No later than 14 days of a child being placed out of the home by a county child welfare services agency, a shared parenting meeting between the parent(s) and the placement provider must occur. This includes placement in: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Licensed foster homes (therapeutic and family foster care); • Relative and non-relative kinship placements; • Group home placements; and • Any other placement in which the county child welfare services agency has legal custody of a child and the child is separated from their parent or caretaker. Foster parents, whether supervised by a private agency or a county child welfare services agency, must participate in shared parenting.	Trauma-Informed Partnering for Safety and Permanence Model Approach to Partnerships in Parenting- (TIPS-MAPP) training is a 10-week training curriculum that is used as a tool in the mutual assessment of prospective foster and adoptive parents in their ability to successfully provide trauma-informed care for children in county child welfare services agency custody. Shared parenting and shared parenting meetings can be an intimidating process for both foster and birth parents. Much like Child and Family Team meetings, preparation is the key for shared parenting to succeed. This requires advanced planning by county child welfare workers, so all parties understand the purpose of the meeting is to discuss the care of the child, not “the case.” The meeting is not to assign blame. It is first and foremost about creating the best possible transition for the child. Sharing parental responsibilities can be enjoyable activities such as working on the child’s life book together, exchanging pictures, reading with the child, etc. They can also plan a joint fun activity that is specifically catered to the child.

Shared Parenting

Before the shared parenting meeting, the county child welfare worker must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be aware that they do not impose their own biases about a birth parent’s previous decisions; • Model positive communication about the birth parent to the foster parent and about the foster parent to the birth parent; • Brief the foster parents about any birth parent fears or needs and help the foster parents understand these needs; • Be prepared to discuss how the needs and interests of the child will be recognized during the shared parenting meeting; • Plan for the birth parent visiting with the child, if appropriate; • Make visitation arrangements when the child is visiting with the birth parent before or after the meeting; and • Encourage the foster parents to share with the birth parents a positive attribute they see in the child. The county child welfare worker must prepare the foster parents and birth parents to exchange information essential to shared parenting, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Medical information; • School progress; • Sleeping habits; • Eating habits; • Response to discipline; and • Any of the children’s strengths and needs. 	Deciding when and where the shared parenting meeting should be held, the county child welfare worker should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Take into consideration the work schedules of the foster and birth parents as well as children’s schedules, especially if there is a need for child care while the adults discuss parenting issues; and • Ask the foster and birth parents where they would like to meet. Meeting in a neutral location that allows for privacy is important. The following can be good options: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A neighborhood recreation center or social center; • The library; or • A child’s therapist office. County child welfare workers should initially focus on items that might seem simple but can be very important such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Asking for a picture of the family to have for the child; and • Discussing the child’s favorite foods, toys, clothes, activities, likes, and dislikes. Both the birth and foster parents should be encouraged to talk openly. County child welfare workers should assist foster and birth parents in managing conflict by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Recognizing the fears of all parties; • Focusing on the strengths; • Looking beyond behaviors to identify needs; and • Developing interventions to meet needs. County child welfare workers should also assist foster and birth parents in understanding cultural or family differences by helping them to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cultivate a mutual understanding and appreciation of religious beliefs and practices;

Shared Parenting

County child welfare agencies must explore opportunities to (if the court ordered visitation/contact plan allows): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Encourage the placement provider to host sibling visits if applicable; • Allow the birth parent to call the placement provider’s home; and • Allow the placement provider to participate in the parent/child visitation. Foster Parents may request a shared parenting agreement that includes clear expectations and appropriate boundaries for all parties. A shared parenting agreement should be updated frequently. When safety concerns are present, the foster parents may request their contact information be kept confidential by the supervising agency.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Openly discuss differences in family rituals, such as meal times or where they eat; • Discuss appearance preferences for things such as haircuts, earrings, make up, etc., as well as other family experiences. • Discuss the benefits of aligning discipline practices. This includes what discipline practices have been effective and can be continued as well as recommendations of alternative practices the foster parent has used effectively in the past. Aligning practices provides consistent structure during visits and when transitioning from one home to the other. The foster and birth parents are supported in their combined efforts. If allowable, placement providers should be encouraged to invite birth parents to attend school and medical appointments. If the birth parent is unable to attend an appointment, the placement provider should provide progress reports to the birth parent on how their child is performing in school, home, updates on any medical information, and other activities. The placement provider can be a wonderful resource for the birth parent, as they can model what others might assume parents know how to do, such as play with the child, encourage positive responses in their child, or how to care for their physical and medical needs. Clear expectations, appropriate boundaries, and ground rules for shared parenting should be discussed and put into writing, with input from the birth family, the foster family, and the county child welfare services agency. The Family Time and Contact Plan (DSS-5242) can be utilized to help with this discussion/plan to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Address personal and emotional safety issues for the child, birth family, and foster family; and • Discuss ground rules regarding phone calls, visitation, and transportation.

The foster parent will provide the biological parents with frequent updates about how their child is doing, to include: photographs, artwork, progress reports from schools or daycare, report cards, etc. After there is an approved Family Time and Contact Plan in place that is flexible and allows the placement provider to convene visits/contacts, the county child welfare worker should be involved with observing contact between the birth parent and child, when appropriate. INVOLVING RELATIVES County child welfare agencies must decide whether to include relatives in shared parenting meetings by considering the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The relationship between the birth parent and the relative; • Will the relative disrupt the development of the partnership between the birth parent and foster parent? • Does the relative have information critical to the daily care of the child, and is this information needed to meet the needs of the child and/or provide support to the biological parents? • Would involving the relative disrupt the long-term goals between the biological and foster parent? • Could the relative be a mentor and support that would help develop a continued partnership beyond reunification? • Other opportunities for the relative to be a part of the child’s life/planning, such as involvement in child and family team meetings; and • Will the decision alienate the birth parent or relative? For example, a grandmother that has been the primary caretaker for the child over the past 6 months may have some information that is essential for the care of the child. The biological parents may want the relative provider to be a part of a shared parenting meeting. Eventually, birth parents and placement providers may come to build a good relationship and choose to share personal information with each other. SAFETY DURING SHARED PARENTING The safety of the participants should always be considered when planning shared parenting meetings. It is recognized that placement providers have a need to know medical conditions that a child may have. Re-disclosure of the information is prohibited without consent of the child, parent, or guardian.

County child welfare workers must:

- Avoid sharing information about the birth parents to the placement providers or about placement providers to the birth parents if it is not information that is pertinent to the child’s care.
- Inform birth parents and placement providers that information shared within a shared parenting meeting remains confidential.
- Discuss any questions with their supervisors and seek out agency policy around specific situations for the sharing of information.

- Create specific ground rules and expectations ahead of time together with all participants that are catered to the specific needs;
- If the meeting cannot be held safely, do not hold the meeting; and
- Choose other avenues such as a phone conference call to facilitate the meeting.

Permanency Planning: Permanency Options

Policy	Legal Basis
The county child welfare services agency must be committed to a permanent resolution of the child’s foster care status. Permanent resolutions include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reunification; • Guardianship; • Custody; • Another Planned Permanent Living Arrangement (APPLA); • Reinstatement of Parental Rights (RPR); or • Adoption. Permanency planning promotes a permanent living situation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • For every child entering the foster care system; • With an adult with whom the child has a continuous, reciprocal relationship; and • Within a minimum amount of time. For children and youth in the custody and placement responsibility of the county child welfare services agency, permanence occurs when they have a lasting, nurturing, legally secure relationship with at least one adult that is characterized by mutual commitment. A “legally secure placement” is defined as a placement in which the direct caretaker has the legal authority to make parental decisions on behalf of the child. Permanency planning are all the casework activities and decision-making activities that guide permanency planning. They are the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When children must be removed from their parents, reunification should occur as soon as possible when concerns that precipitated the child’s removal have been alleviated, and 	N.C.G.S. § 7B-906.2 (b) states at any permanency planning hearing, the court shall adopt concurrent permanent plans and shall identify the primary plan and secondary plan. Reunification shall remain a primary or secondary plan unless the court made findings under G.S. 7B-901(c) or makes written findings that reunification efforts clearly would be unsuccessful or would be inconsistent with the juvenile's health or safety. The court shall order the county department of social services to make efforts toward finalizing the primary and concurrent permanent plans and may specify efforts that are reasonable to timely achieve permanence for the juvenile. PL 113-183 requires agencies to provide documentation at each permanency hearing of the “intensive, ongoing, and, as of the date of the hearing, unsuccessful efforts made by the county child welfare services agency to return the child or secure a placement with a fit and willing relative (including adult siblings), a legal guardian, or an adoptive parent, including through efforts that utilize search technology (including social media) to find biological family members for children.” According to N.C.G.S. § 7B-101 (18), reasonable efforts are defined as the diligent use of preventive or reunification services by a department of social services when a juvenile's remaining at home or returning home is consistent with achieving a safe, permanent home for the juvenile within a reasonable period of time. If a court of competent jurisdiction determines that the juvenile is not to be returned home, then reasonable efforts means the diligent and timely use of Permanency Planning Services by a department of social services to develop and implement a permanent plan for the juvenile.

NCGS § 7B-903.1(c) further states that before a county child welfare services agency may recommend return of physical custody of the juvenile to the parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker from whom the juvenile was removed, the agency must first observe that parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker with the juvenile for at least two visits that support a recommendation to return physical custody. Circumstances that would allow this permanency option are very narrow. Only the youth, the county child welfare services agency, or the youth's GAL attorney advocate may file a motion to reinstate parental rights. When the court enters an order to reinstate a former parent's rights, these rights include custody, control, and support of the youth.

Adoption by relatives or kin must be considered if the relative or kin are willing to adopt and can provide a safe home. Current foster parents of the child have the right to be considered as prospective adoptive placement after a termination of parental rights hearing or relinquishment pursuant to G.S. 7B-1112.1. When the court has ordered a primary permanent plan of adoption, the county child welfare services agency must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> File a petition for termination of parental rights within 60 calendar days of the hearing that determines the primary permanent plan is adoption unless the court makes other findings. At a minimum, the plan must document the child-specific recruitment efforts such as the use of state, regional, and national adoption exchanges, including electronic exchange systems, to facilitate orderly and timely in-state and interstate placements; Develop a Child Profile that describes the child needing placement to be available for prospective adoptive families; Conduct or arrange for a Pre-Placement Assessment (PPA) or a PPA Addendum based on potential adoptive family’s status; and 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Has the best interest of the child been considered and documented? Who will help the child through the placement process? Has a pool of potential adoptive families been recruited, or is the agency willing to commit to child-specific recruitment? Have the child’s specific needs and strengths been thoroughly assessed and evaluated? Has a placement option that will be able to meet the child’s needs been identified? What is the child’s relationship with siblings? Should the child be placed with siblings and, if so, can this be accomplished? Is the child able to accept “parenting?” When considering relatives or kin, care should be taken in assessing this option to consider whether there may be conflict or divided loyalties between the parent of the child and the adopting relatives, and how these issues would be handled. If an adoption by relative or kin can be achieved, the child’s sense of identity and family history can be preserved. After a termination of parental rights or relinquishment, the county child welfare agency should contact the current placement provider to determine if they want to be considered as the prospective adoptive placement and notify the placement provider of the next required steps.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Register all children who are free for adoption and who are not in their identified adoptive home with the North Carolina Adoption Exchange (NC Kids), as well as regional and national adoption exchanges including electronic exchange systems, in order to facilitate matches between persons interested in adoption and the children who are available. When adoption is the secondary permanency plan for a child, the agency must search for an appropriate adoptive family. If the agency is unsuccessful in locating a person willing to adopt the child within one year of the court ordering a primary permanent plan of adoption, the permanent plan must be changed unless the agency is able to justify to the court why the plan should remain “adoption.” Justification includes the agency’s progress toward locating a person willing to assume legal responsibility for the child through adoption. Youth ages 12 and older who are reluctant to consider adoption must be given an opportunity to talk in a facilitated CFT meeting about their concerns. Other permanency options must be offered, and the youth’s preferred plan must be given strong consideration whenever feasible.	This should not be the first time that the county child welfare agency has discussed adoption with the child’s placement provider. If adoption by a relative, kin, or foster parent is not an option, the agency should recruit an appropriate adoptive home for the child. Children and youth who can provide input should be asked for their recommendations regarding potential adoptive families, since they may know individuals or families with whom they are comfortable. Adoption by foster parents is often an appropriate plan, especially if the child has developed a close relationship with the foster family. Such a plan has the benefit of providing continuity for the child with a family that they already know without requiring an additional move. Increasingly, foster families are working with the team toward reunification efforts and are encouraged to consider committing to the child permanently through adoption if reunification is not possible. Sometimes the child’s parent(s) recognize they cannot be the permanent family for the child. When they know and respect the care their child is receiving from the foster family, they may voluntarily relinquish their parental rights, so the child can be adopted by that family. The advantage in this situation is that it allows for the possibility that the child and birth parent continue some relationship while the child is raised by a committed and caring adoptive family. Note: §7B-909.1 states that before the relinquishment of a juvenile to a department of social services for the purpose of adoption may be executed by a parent, whose retained counsel has entered a notice of appearance or who has an attorney whose provisional appointment has

There may be approved families waiting that may be appropriate for the child, or potential adoptive families may need to be recruited specifically for the child. Recruitment activities should include the use of media resources and the faith community. A child may be placed in a “legal risk” placement before the child is legally cleared for adoption. The purpose of legal risk placement is to move the child into a permanent home as soon as possible without jeopardizing the legal or social well-being of the child. A legal risk placement does not allow the agency to consent to the child’s adoption. Therefore, the home in which the child is to be placed must be licensed as a foster home or approved by a court order. Legal risk placements are appropriate when the child is not yet legally free for adoption but there is a high probability that parental rights will be terminated.

If a former parent whose rights have been terminated contacts the county child welfare services agency or contacts the youth’s GAL regarding RPR, then the youth must be informed of their right to file a motion for RPR. When a motion for RPR is filed and the court determines it to be the permanent plan for the youth, the county child welfare services agency will continue to have responsibility for the youth’s placement and care. This must include supervising visitation and monitoring placement with the former parent, if ordered, until a final determination is made to either reinstate parental rights or determine another permanent plan.	When considering RPR, the agency should hear from the youth and explore with them their thoughts, concerns, needs, etc. A youth may be afraid to speak freely in front of a parent and/or placement provider for fear of being disloyal or hurtful. Permanency Planning: Concurrent Planning

Legal Basis
N.C.G.S. § 7B-906.2(b) states that at any permanency planning hearing, the court shall adopt concurrent permanent plans and shall identify the primary plan and secondary plan. Reunification shall be a primary or secondary plan unless the court made findings under G.S. 7B-901(c) or G.S. 7B-906.1(d)(3), the permanent plan is or has been achieved in accordance with subsection (a1) of this section, or the court makes written findings that reunification efforts clearly would be unsuccessful or would be inconsistent with the juvenile's health or safety. The finding that reunification efforts clearly would be unsuccessful or inconsistent with the juvenile's health or safety may be made at any permanency planning hearing, and if made, shall eliminate reunification as a plan. Unless permanence has been achieved, the court shall order the county department of social services to make efforts toward finalizing the primary and secondary permanent plans and may specify efforts that are reasonable to timely achieve permanence for the juvenile.
Definition:
CONCURRENT PLANNING Concurrent permanency planning is the process of working towards a primary permanent plan for a child, such as reunification, while developing at least one alternative, or secondary, permanent plan at the same time. Concurrent planning is used to keep the focus on the child’s urgent needs for safety and permanence and to reduce the length of time a child spends in county child welfare services agency custody. Concurrent planning ensures a secondary plan is developed if efforts to achieve the primary plan are unsuccessful. A secondary permanency plan is developed, and efforts to achieve the primary and secondary plan are made concurrently. If the primary plan is unsuccessful, the secondary plan has been developed and can be fully implemented. It is not inconsistent to work toward reunification while building a case which will support concurrent planning and alternative resolutions. When a child enters county child welfare services agency custody, the primary plan is usually reunification with the parents or caretakers from whom the child was removed. In concurrent planning, the county child welfare worker is developing at least one secondary permanent plan jointly with the family.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance – How you should do it
County child welfare agencies must develop concurrent plans for each child in county child welfare services agency custody. In addition, agencies must make diligent efforts to achieve both the primary and secondary permanent plans.	Conditions supporting early concurrent planning include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The reasons the child is being removed are fresh on the minds of county child welfare workers and parents;

If the court determines reunification to be inconsistent with the juvenile's health or safety, relatives and kin that have been assessed to be appropriate resources for a child may become the permanent placement resource. Adoption by a relative, non-relative kin, or foster family should always be considered as a secondary permanent plan. If neither reunification nor adoption is possible, custody or guardianship with relatives, kin, or foster parents provides another permanency option. If the juvenile court determines the primary plan is not possible because it is inconsistent with the child’s needs for safety and permanence, the secondary plan should be implemented. Example of when a concurrent plan would not be needed: A three-year-old child who is legally free for adoption has been living with his licensed foster parents, who want to adopt him, consecutively for 13 months. The county child welfare agency has not identified any barriers to adoption. At the post TPR review hearing the court deemed that a concurrent plan was not in the best interest of the juvenile.

There is currently a staff member at the group home who expressed interest in taking custody of the juvenile child. The staff member said they have also considered adoption but would like more time to consider. At the post TPR review hearing, the county child welfare agency has adoption as the primary plan and custody with a court approved caretaker as the concurrent plan as that is in the best interest of the juvenile at this time.

Permanency planning hearings shall be at least every six months thereafter to review the progress made in finalizing the permanent plan for the juvenile, or if necessary, to make a new permanent plan for the juvenile. According to P.L. 113-183, with each permanency hearing held with respect to the child, the agency shall document the intensive, ongoing and, as of the date of the hearing, unsuccessful efforts made by the agency to return the child or secure a placement for the child with a fit and willing relative (including adult siblings), a legal guardian, or an adoptive parent, including thorough efforts that utilize search technology (including social media) to find biological family members for children.

Child and Family Team / Permanency Planning Review Meetings

Legal Basis
Sec. 475. [42 U.S.C. 675] of the Social Security Act states that the status of each child is reviewed periodically by a panel of appropriate persons, at least one of whom is not responsible for the case management of, or the delivery of services to, either the child or the parents who are the subject of the review. The purpose of the review is to determine the safety of the child, the continuing necessity for and appropriateness of the placement, the extent of compliance with the case plan, and the extent of progress which has been made toward alleviating or mitigating the causes necessitating placement in foster care, and to project a likely date by which the child may be returned to and safely maintained in the home or placed for adoption or legal guardianship and, for a child for whom another planned permanent living arrangement has been determined as the permanency plan, the steps the county child welfare services agency is taking to ensure the child's foster family home or child care institution is following the Reasonable and Prudent Parent Standard and to ascertain whether the child has regular, ongoing opportunities to engage in age- or developmentally-appropriate activities (including by consulting with the child in an age-appropriate manner about the opportunities of the child to participate in the activities).

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance – How you should do it
PERMANENCY PLANNING REVIEW TEAM MEETINGS For children who are in the legal custody or placement responsibility of a county child welfare services agency, a PPR must be held at the following required intervals: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Within 60 days of the child coming into agency custody or placement responsibility; and • Every 90 days thereafter throughout the life of the case; and • When there is a recommended change in the permanent plan outside of the regular review schedule. PPRs are open, non-adversarial forums for focusing on casework practice and planning. The PPR process allows each party involved to have input into service needs of the child and family; to document progress of the parents in improving the conditions that led to county child welfare services agency custody; to develop the most appropriate permanent plan; and to ensure permanency is achieved for every child.	PPRs should be action-oriented. These reviews are valuable in achieving a safe, permanent home for every child in the legal custody or placement responsibility of a county child welfare services agency within one year. While these reviews are needed to discuss the child, family, and agency efforts, they also ensure that every county child welfare services agency custody case moves quickly toward a permanent resolution. There are many variations of when a permanency planning review will need to be held outside of the regular review schedule. Additional reviews should be held based on the needs of the family and any significant change in circumstances. Because permanency planning reviews occur every 90 days, every effort should be made to make decisions regarding permanency within the regular review schedule. A PPR meeting should be used to discuss and strategize for concurrent planning options at various points throughout the life of a permanency planning case. While primary plans must reflect reunification, early inclusion

Families should be informed about and allowed to plan for all the options they feel can support permanence for their children. PPR Teams are valuable tools for assessing the strengths and needs of families and children in the early phase of permanency planning. By involving the child's family, relatives, and other kin, foster parents, community supports, and all the agencies involved with the child and family in an early assessment process, everyone involved can understand clearly the reasons for child’s removal. Everyone also can understand the issues that need to be resolved for reunification to occur or, if reunification is not the plan, the child’s need for permanency. Each PPR should include the following in the discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • At the initial review, discuss reasons that necessitated placement and the type of placement provided. Include in the discussion what efforts have been made, why those efforts did or did not work, and what efforts are currently being made. • At subsequent reviews, discuss why the child still is in care, why the placement was chosen, any changes in the placement, and whether the placement remains appropriate. • Specific tasks to be completed by the agency and the parents: Do these tasks or services relate to what brought the child into care? Will these tasks or services result in the desired changes in behavior? • Tasks completed or not completed by the agency and by the parents: Are these tasks reasonable and appropriate? Has progress been documented? Why have some tasks not been completed?

PREPARING THE CHILD County child welfare agencies must help prepare the child for an exit from county child welfare services agency custody, no matter the permanent plan being achieved. For youth exiting foster care at age 18 the agency must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Provide important documents to the youth prior to the exit; • Complete the Transitional Living Plan: 90 Day Transition Plan for Youth in Foster Care (DSS-5096b); and • Discuss the option of participating in Foster Care 18 to 21 with the youth. 	Whether a child has been in county child welfare services agency custody for a short or a long period of time, the move out of care is equally as significant as the move into care. The child may have conflicting feelings about the change in living arrangements. It is the county child welfare worker’s responsibility to help him/her express and understand these conflicting feelings and to move gradually toward making the change. The county child welfare worker should plan with the child, age appropriately about the kinds of responsibilities the child can take in getting ready for the move. Whether a child is being discharged from family foster care, relative placement, or from institutional care, the caretaker should plan with the county child welfare worker for the move and participate in preparing the child for the changes. Changes in living arrangements usually mean changes in relationships. If it is appropriate, the child may need to visit their former placement after discharge. Services may be extended by the agency to youth ages 13 to 21 who leave foster care and meet the eligibility requirements for LINKS services, regardless of their living arrangement and whether the agency retains custody or placement responsibility of the youth during this time. This extension of services will allow the county child welfare worker to provide needed support to the youth after discharge from foster care placement. The services should be based upon an assessment of the youth’s needs, to assist him/her in making a successful transition to living independently. The child’s life book should be given to the child and/or the parent(s)/guardian/custodian/adoptive family.

PREPARING THE FAMILY FOR REUNIFICATION The agency must request that visitation between the child and parent(s) increase, including unsupervised visitation and a trial home visit. The agency must also comply with the requirements of Rylan’s Law/CPS Observation prior to recommending reunification occur. The county child welfare services agency must provide the family with any important documents and other items pertaining to the child including, but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Medical records; • Medications; and • School records. 	The child and family have changed during the time of placement. Even over a matter of months, the child will have achieved developmental milestones, will have formed new relationships with foster parents, and may have new interests. Families will have adjusted their daily routines around the absence of the child. Parents may have learned new parenting skills that impact familiar family practices. During the planning process, the county child welfare worker should keep the child and family abreast of the changes that are occurring. When placement providers are encouraged to work with the birth families, both the child and the family can benefit from a significant increase in the amount of information shared. As the family moves toward reunification, the county child welfare worker should be very sensitive to the fears of the family. They may be afraid they are not ready for the child’s return and could lose their child again. The county child welfare worker should work with the family to assure needed supports are in place. Family Preservation Services may be included during the trial home visit or as part of the aftercare plan to further stabilize the family. County child welfare agencies should aid with transitioning Medicaid and other services the child is receiving, when appropriate.
PREPARING THE FOSTER FAMILY The foster family must participate in planning for the child’s exit from county child welfare services agency custody. The foster family must assist in transitioning the child to their permanent living arrangement.	The foster family needs the county child welfare worker’s full support and recognition of the contributions they have made in the child’s life. The foster family should be informed of why the county has reached a decision to move a child to a permanent placement. Such information and preparation will help the foster family come to an acceptance and understanding of these events, so they can help a child adjust to the move. If it is in the best interest of the child, a contact between the child and the foster family should be arranged by the agency after a child has moved to a more permanent placement.

PREPARING THE ADOPTIVE FAMILY OR OTHER PERMANENT CAREGIVER If the adoptive family or other permanent caregiver has not lived with the child, the agency must arrange for a transitional period of visitation to help the child and family learn about each other. The adoptive family or other permanent caregiver must be provided with all information that is relevant to the child’s history, relationships, behaviors, health, interests, and educational needs. Non-identifying information about the child’s birth family must be provided to the adoptive family so the child will be able to know the reason for their adoption. The agency must make post-adoption services available to every adoptive family. These services must be provided to facilitate the integration of the child and family and to resolve problems they may encounter. The agency must provide regular and ongoing support, monitoring, and/or counseling of the family as appropriate. A referral to Family Preservation Services may be appropriate for post-adoption services.
AFTERCARE SERVICES The agency must inform families and children that they can request services from the agency and obtain these services on a voluntary basis, as available. Families must be informed of services that may be available to them including, but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Adoption assistance; • Post-adoption support; • Guardianship assistance; • LINKS services and funding; and • Foster Care 18 to 21 services. 	The agency should establish a minimum period for providing supportive aftercare services and supervision to the child and their permanent family. In most cases, agency supervision can be terminated after six months unless the court orders otherwise and/or the final Risk Reassessment indicates additional service needs. Guardians and legal custodians should also be made aware of available services, so they can select services they need. If they indicate no need for services, they should be informed that services are available to them, should they need them later.

Documentation and Record Keeping

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance – How you should do it
Documentation and record keeping are critical in managing a permanency planning case. Documentation and record keeping must be maintained to meet federal, state, and local mandates. MAINTENANCE OF THE PERMANENCY PLANNING RECORD The electronic NC FAST record for each child in the custody of a county child welfare services agency must be maintained throughout the life of the case.	Documentation and record keeping should be viewed as a valuable tool for the county child welfare worker and child welfare supervisor, as well as for the court. The NC FAST electronic record should provide and maintain a history of the child and family’s involvement. Electronic records in NC FAST should include documents that constitute legal evidence. A comprehensive and up-to-date record will alert the county child welfare worker and the child welfare supervisor when required action is needed in the case, such as agency case reviews, court reviews, and contacts with the child, family, and others.
CONTENTS OF THE PERMANENCY PLANNING RECORD Case documentation must be current within 7 working days. Documentation in the electronic record must include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A description of the actions taken; • Current progress toward the goal and objectives stated on the Permanency Planning Family Services Agreement (DSS-5240); • A current copy of the Child Placement and Payment Report (DSS-5094); and • The rationale for agency involvement and services delivery on an ongoing basis. The agency must maintain an individual electronic record for each child or sibling group in NC FAST. Each electronic record must contain: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Demographic information, which must include:

Adolescent Services: NC LINKS

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Introduction In December of 1999, the Congress enacted, the John Chafee Foster Care (http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/cb/resource/chafee-foster-care-program). This Act replaced the Independent Living Initiative as described in Public Law 99-272 and made substantial changes in the federal efforts that target youth in the foster care system and young adults who have been discharged from foster care. The law has since been amended to include Education Training Vouchers for youth aging out of foster care and youth who are adopted after their sixteenth birthday. This program is described later in this section. The name of the North Carolina program, NC LINKS, is not an acronym, and therefore does not “stand” for anything. Instead, it is a word that captures the purposes of the Chafee Act and the intent of North Carolina: to build a network of relevant services with youth so that they will have ongoing connections with family, friends, mentors, the community, employers, education, financial assistance, skills training, and other resources to facilitate their transition to adulthood. YOUTH DEVELOPMENT APPROACH AND MRS PRINCIPLES Youth development is the process through which adolescents become adults. This process is the result of the interaction between the adolescent, and all that he or she is, and the environment. All adults have been through this process. For many adults, the process included some negative experiences; however, the vast majority of adolescents do become self-sufficient adults. Adolescents in foster care are also engaged in the normal but sometimes chaotic process of youth development. Because of their personal history, many of these youths are facing additional barriers to achieve positive outcomes, such as a history of abuse or neglect. Research has shown that caring adults can influence positive outcomes for all adolescents. While there is no guarantee, positive outcomes are much more likely to occur if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Youth are engaged in making the decisions that affect their lives; • Youth are recognized and valued for their strengths and the resources they are to themselves; • Youth have a variety of opportunities to learn and to try out their new skills in a supportive environment; and • Youth have increasing responsibility for themselves for handling issues that confront them.

Adolescent Services: NC LINKS

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
The parallels between the Positive Youth Development Approach and MRS / Family-Centered Practice are clear: The youth is viewed as the expert on his or her own needs. The agency encourages the youth’s active participation in services and decision making. The approach to the youth is strengths-based, acknowledging that all youth have strengths. The agency treats the youth with respect and supports his or her right to self-determination and to make decisions about his or her life. It supports the youth’s right to be heard and to be understood. It avoids premature judgments about the youth, and remains open to new information. It promotes the sharing of power. It engenders partnership between the youth and the agency. The traditional foster care system is formed around the protection of children. Children are removed from their families only when supportive services are not adequate to ensure safety. Children remain in foster care only when, despite the efforts of families and agencies, permanent placement is not possible. Teens in foster care who are, in essence, a family of one, may be denied these critical aspects of family-centered practice: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Decisions about their lives are frequently made for them without their involvement; • The focus of the agency’s work is often on fixing the youth’s problems, rather than on building on their strengths; • Liability concerns take precedence over allowing youth to learn through experience or to take over responsibility for aspects of their lives; and, • Programmatic barriers result in delaying the maturational process and make positive outcomes far less likely. The LINKS program is based on positive youth development principles. In this approach, the LINKS social worker intentionally creates and/or allows opportunities for youth to experience growth-enhancing interactions with their environment. Rather than treating the youth as an object who has no say in decisions, or as a recipient who needs to be repaired, the agency interacts with the youth as a resource, a person with unique experiences and abilities who can become self-sufficient if given needed information and a supportive environment. The following example illustrates these three approaches to Jeff, a 17-year-old youth who wants to go back to live with his mother, an alcoholic who has often broken promises to seek treatment, to visit, to bring him home from the group home for holidays, etc. The agency is seeking Termination of Parental Rights (TPR) because Jeff has been in care for almost two years. Jeff is furious about this, and says that no matter what the agency does, he will go back to his mom when he is 18.

Adolescent Services: NC LINKS

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Object The local child welfare agency continues with its petition to terminate parental rights. It cannot find justification for exempting the agency from this ASFA requirement. The agency will not even consider allowing Jeff to visit his mother given her lack of progress and the liability issues they could face were something to happen. Recipient The local child welfare agency refers Jeff to a therapist to help him with his anger and frustration with his mother. The social worker meets with Jeff regularly to develop an alternative plan which includes his signing a CARS agreement and continuing in school so he can get his diploma, even though he will be 19 when he finishes. Jeff expresses no interest in this option. The agency explains the benefits of the LINKS Special Funds program, and how the agency will be able to help him set up his own place, to rent an apartment, and to get further training. When Jeff does not participate in some of his planning meetings, the plan is discussed without him. Resource The local child welfare agency accepts Jeff’s plan to return to his mother’s home and stops the TPR proceedings. The services agreement includes increasing visitation with the mother, including school holidays. Jeff will be responsible for arranging his own transportation. The focus of social work time will be on helping Jeff to develop strategies to cope with issues that confront him. The agency makes available services and resources that Jeff needs to explore his plans, always open to the option of changing the plan if this does not work out as he hopes. When the agency respects the youth as a resource, it recognizes that this is Jeff’s life and ultimately Jeff’s decision to make. Jeff needs to explore his choices when he has the support he needs to make his plans work or to make different choices if they don’t. While it is rarely appropriate to treat a youth as an object (such as when they are sick and have to get medical treatment) or occasionally as a recipient (such as insisting that a sexually aggressive youth attend group therapy sessions,) it is only when the youth is treated as a resource that they can make rapid progress toward responsible adulthood. The LINKS program is unique in that its total focus is on helping youth to make that transition. Other aspects of foster care case management and child protective services have different responsibilities to these youths. Taking a youth development approach is difficult for many LINKS social workers, who often want to protect youth from making mistakes and to step in to exert well-meaning influence on their decisions.

Adolescent Services: NC LINKS

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
The role of the LINKS social worker must change when the agency takes a youth development approach. The role becomes that of a teacher, a coach, and an advocate. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Teacher: As a teacher the social worker works with the youth to determine what he or she needs to know to proceed toward self-sufficiency. This may mean preparatory training in life skills, driver’s education, work or volunteer experience, money and credit management etc. As teacher, the social worker is alert to planned and spontaneous opportunities that will encourage positive youth development. • Coach: Coaching includes on-the-spot teaching as well as allowing experience to do the teaching and encouraging youth to figure out their own solutions. For example, if youth are given the responsibility for reading a map and following directions for an outing and become lost, the social worker might wait for the youth to figure out what to do rather than rescuing him from the situation. Learning what to do when lost is an important life skill! • Advocate: As advocate, the social worker not only speaks on behalf of youth but also seeks opportunities for youth to advocate on their own behalf. As advocate, the social worker may work diligently to keep agency staff aware about the program. An advocate may challenge the usefulness of outdated existing agency policy that thwarts youth development. An advocate has a critical role in helping the agency to learn about an individual youth’s strengths and abilities, rather than always making decisions that are focused on problems. THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE LINKS LIAISON The responsibilities of the LINKS liaison expanded significantly with the passage of the John Chafee Foster Care Independence Act and the resulting NC LINKS program. Every county is required to designate one or more persons who will assure that required LINKS services are provided to their county youth and young adults. Among the responsibilities of the county LINKS liaison are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop a good working relationship with eligible teens and young adults, their caregivers, supporters and social workers, using a positive youth development approach that will provide a challenging and supportive environment which will help their preparation for adulthood; • Work cooperatively with eligible county youth and young adults to develop and conduct a relevant and effective county LINKS program; • Engage the broader community in providing a supportive learning and living environment for teens and young adults from the foster care system, which may include engaging community partners in mentoring youth in jobs, providing tangible supports to Assure that expenditure of LINKS funds are allowable; • Refer eligible young adults for ETV; • Consult with state coordinator as needed; • Conduct diligent outreach efforts to all young adults ages 18-21 who aged out of foster care in the county and provide appropriate services to those young adults; • Creatively advocate for teens in foster care and for young adults who have aged out of foster care; encourage youth to be self-advocates and leaders; • Prepare an annual plan for the county LINKS program; • Respond to requests for data from the state coordinator; • Participate in LINKS training offered through the Staff Development Section (LINKS 101, 201 and Groups Course, as appropriate); • Participate in Regional training and meetings with state LINKS coordinator when schedule allows; • Participate in monthly conference calls with county liaisons and state coordinator when schedule allows; • Assure transportation for county youth to attend regional events such as SaySo conferences, Real World, and LINK-UP conferences and participate actively with youth and other adults in attendance; • Meet with liaisons from other counties to consolidate or coordinate services as appropriate.

LINKS IS AN OUTCOME-BASED SERVICE The Federal government has identified seven outcomes that they will monitor to assure that Chafee-funded independent living services are effective. Our goal in North Carolina is for every youth and young adult who lives or has lived in foster care as a teenager to achieve the following outcomes by age 21. LINKS program staff should be constantly alert to ways in which they can promote accomplishment of these outcomes. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. All youth leaving the foster care system shall have sufficient economic resources to meet their daily needs. 2. All youth leaving the foster care system shall have a safe and stable place to live. 3. All youth leaving the foster care system shall attain academic or vocational/educational goals that are in keeping with the youth’s abilities and interests. 4. All youth leaving the foster care system shall have a sense of connectedness to persons and community. This means that every youth, upon exiting foster care, should have a personal support network of at least 5 responsible adults who will remain supportive of the young adult over time. 5. All youth leaving the foster care system shall avoid illegal/high risk behaviors. 6. All youth leaving the foster care system shall postpone parenthood until financially established and emotionally mature. 7. All youth leaving the foster care system shall have access to physical and mental health services, as well as a means to pay for those services. LINKS liaisons are encouraged to track and review progress toward these outcomes to provide guidance for all program activities. Strategies that are not effective should be revised. Outcome #1: Youth has Sufficient Economic Resources to Meet Daily Living Needs <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. If youth is a dependent child, the family provides sufficient resources for basic daily living needs. 2. Job stability for youth or young adults, as indicated by at least six months in the same job during the previous year. 3. The youth or young adult pays own portion of daily living expenses or contributes to an agreed-upon amount.

Youth is culturally competent and is at least tolerant of other cultures. 7. Youth is able to assert self appropriately in the face of discrimination. Some examples of program elements include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Youth are given opportunities to develop a strong reality-based sense of self-worth within a program that consistently advocates youth development. • Youth resilience is recognized, acknowledged, and nurtured even when it is contrary to systemic expectations. • Youth are taught skills for nurturing their own resilience, such as decision making, self-care, recreational activities, and confidence building experiences. • Youth are supported in their participation in activities that develop skills, talents, spiritual development, positive relationships, recreational interests, physical and intellectual conditioning. • Involvement in these activities is considered a part of the overall transitional plan and is not denied as a form of “punishment”. The agency accesses appropriate funds to help the youth to participate in positive developmental experiences. • Youth are given opportunities to develop leadership and self-advocacy skills through organizations such as Say-So and through participation in statewide and national conferences that promote youth development.

Youth who, as teenagers, have been discharged from foster care and were reunified, placed with relatives, adopted, married, or emancipated remain eligible for LINKS services until their 21st birthday. Detention facilities, forestry camps, training schools, and any other facility operated primarily for the detention of children who have been determined to be delinquent are not considered foster care placements. Eligibility for LINKS services and funds requires that the youth be an active participant in his or her planning, including sharing in the responsibility for designing and implementing their transitional plan. Youth involvement in case planning must be documented in the case record and reflected on the case plan. Youth and young adults who refuse services, who refuse to be active participants in designing the case plan, and/or who refuse to do their part in resolving problems cannot be provided LINKS services or resources. Eligibility for LINKS services is intentionally broad, in order to permit agencies to serve youth and young adults who need the services and who are willing to do their part in resolving problems. PRIORITIES FOR SERVICE DELIVERY Most counties cannot provide LINKS services to all youth and young adults who meet the eligibility criteria and must prioritize the use of their resources. The following priorities are guidelines for prioritizing LINKS services. Required Services Local child welfare agencies must offer and provide appropriate services to youth and young adults ages 13-21 that are in agency custody and to young adults who aged out of agency custody at age 18 and who are not yet 21. Outreach efforts are required for young adults who aged out of care and who are not yet 21 to determine their current situations, their interest in continued services, and their need for resources through the LINKS Special Funds program. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Eligible teens and young adults in foster care or on Contractual Agreement for Residential Services / Voluntary Placement Agreement (CARS/VPA) agreements ages 13-21 must be offered skills training, counseling, education and other appropriate support and services to assist their transition to self-sufficiency. Agencies have the responsibility for teaching skills necessary for teens to become self-sufficient and for providing opportunities to use those skills within a supportive environment.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Young adults who “aged out” of foster care (were in foster care on their eighteenth birthday) must be offered any needed assistance for which they are eligible. LINKS Transitional Housing Funds are available to reimburse counties for the cost of rent, rent deposits or room and board arrangements for young adults who aged out of care. In addition, other LINKS Special Funds are available to help with non-housing expenses, such as utilities, furniture, etc. Note: Young adults who age out of NC foster care, youth who were adopted from NC foster care, or exited NC foster care to guardianship may be eligible for Education and Training Vouchers and/or NC Reach Scholarships to defray the costs of attendance at post-secondary education or vocational training institutions. Please go to Foster Care to Success for more information on Education and Training Vouchers. Please go to NCReach.org for more information on NC Reach. OTHER PROGRAM ELEMENTS OF NC LINKS The State is required by law to make LINKS benefits and services available to American Indian children in the state on the same basis as other children. North Carolina interprets this responsibility to include all Native American children, regardless of Federal recognition status. State statute effective July 27, 2001 established an understanding between local child welfare agency and the Indian tribes on Indian child welfare issues, including LINKS services that effect Indian teens that are placed in foster care. Particular effort shall be given to identifying American Indian youth who are eligible for the LINKS program, and to eliminating barriers to their participation in the LINKS program. Focus of LINKS involvement should include helping Indian youth maintain cultural ties to their tribes. Serving Ineligible Youth Some youth are ineligible for LINKS-funded services but need what the program offers. The primary focus of the LINKS program should always be on serving those teens that are eligible for the funds. However, if other youth can be served without using any Federal funds, including LINKS funds, and without displacing an eligible youth, the county can opt to include them in the program. The following are examples of ineligible youth who may want and need services. There may be other examples that arise, which would be handled in the same way.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
a. Youth in care who are not yet 13 years of age, or young adults who were in care as teens but are now over the age of 21 If a youth or young adult is in need of involvement with the LINKS program and would be a constructive addition to the program, they can be served if their involvement does not require additional expenditure of LINKS funds and no eligible youth is denied services in order for the ineligible person to participate. One way to involve young adults over the age of 21 is to have them participate in leadership roles in the program. Young adults who are experiencing difficulty in their transition can be particularly effective leaders for youth who are preparing to go out on their own. b. Youth receiving CPS In-Home Services Much concern has been raised regarding the lack of local child welfare agency services to teens who have been subjected to abuse or neglect but who remain in their own homes with agency services. LINKS funds cannot be used to provide services to teens in conjunction with CPS Services unless the youth qualifies as a person who was previously in foster care as a teen. These youth may, however, participate in ongoing LINKS programming if that seems appropriate, so long as no additional costs are incurred due to that youth’s participation, and so long as no eligible youth is denied services in order for the ineligible youth to participate. c. Undocumented Immigrant Children State foster care funds help provide for housing and limited emergency medical assistance for undocumented children who enter foster care through child protective services. No federal funds can be applied to assistance or services for undocumented persons. If an otherwise eligible youth is disqualified from LINKS because of residency status, the agency can serve him or her so long as no Federal funds are used to provide those services. Once legal residency is established, LINKS funds may be used to provide services. d. Ineligible Siblings of LINKS Participants Occasionally the sibling of a teen will be in care and will want to participate in LINKS activities. If the sibling is sufficiently mature to participate, and no eligible youth or young adult is denied services due to his/her participation, and if participation does not require additional expenditure of LINKS funds, then they can participate.

e. Youth with Personal Reserves of $10,000 or More Youth are not eligible for LINKS funds if they have personal reserves of more than $10,000. As is true with other ineligible youth, services may be provided if no additional LINKS funds are used to provide the service and if no eligible youth is denied services because of participation by the ineligible youth. A youth with excess reserves may, of course, pay for costs of full participation in LINKS activities. In order to provide services to a youth who is not eligible for LINKS funding: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Assure that the inclusion of the youth involves no additional cost to the agency, or, if the inclusion of the youth does involve additional cost, the additional costs will be paid through other funding sources (family, the youth, private donations, county funds, etc.). • If the participant is in agency custody, document in the Family Services Case Plan what service is requested and provided as well as how the additional cost is being managed. • If the ineligible participant is not in agency custody, document in the LINKS program documentation what service is requested and how any additional cost will be managed. Financial Aspects of the LINKS Program, including LINKS allocations, Special Funds, and the Education Training Voucher program are now described in Appendix 3.5 of the NC Child Welfare manual. YOUTH INVOLVEMENT IN PLANNING FOR SERVICES As mentioned in the first section, it is critically important that youth be involved in the planning process at all levels: from the identification of issues that need to be addressed through definition of goals and activities and the identification of personal and systemic resources. All youth need and want an opportunity to have a say in their lives, to be taken seriously, and to have adults understand them.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
A highly effective means of demonstrating openness to youth in the planning process is to have youth invite family, mentors, friends, and/or other supporters to their service plan reviews. This arrangement accomplishes several goals- <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • it gives the youth more ownership of the planning process; • it gives significant persons in the youth’s life an opportunity to engage in the planning process; and • it helps the agency to identify support persons that may have been previously unknown to them. Some states that use this strategy have discovered multiple permanency resources among the supporters identified by youth. Confidentiality issues can be handled by having participants sign a confidentiality form that states that the participants are aware that information shared during the meeting is confidential, and that they agree not to divulge any information shared without the expressed permission of the youth. Assessment Tools for Youth Ages 13-21 Life skills assessments for youth 13-18 must involve both the youth and a person who knows the youth’s skills and abilities first-hand, such as a family member or caregiver. The purpose of the assessment is to determine the youth’s strengths and skill areas as well as the need for additional training or experiences. This enables the LINKS social worker to engage youth in teaching and program leadership as well as learning opportunities. Proper use of the tools provides a “roadmap” for identifying skills and resources youth need to achieve their goals. The Strengths/Needs Inventory, which is available through Independent Living Resources, Inc. (http://ilrinc.com/), is a good interview tool that helps the youth and social worker (or other caring person) share their interests. Some agencies use the Strengths/ Needs Inventory in conjunction with the automated tools. It is not a stand-alone assessment. This is available through the LINKS 101 training or directly through Independent Living Resources, Inc. a. It is appropriate for all youth regardless of whether they are in foster care, kinship care, live with their parents, or reside in a group home. Youth will complete the assessment online and their answers are available instantly to be reviewed with the youth in a strengths-based conversation that actively engages them in the process of developing their goals. A resource guide is also available to help caregivers and providers create a learning plan that can help youth gain the skills they need. Child welfare agencies and youth-serving providers may register with Casey Life Skills to create an account that lets them administer the assessment to youth and access all of the sites reporting tools. Registration is free and instantaneous. Records of the youth to whom agencies have administered an assessment are stored for later reference. The CLSA is helpful in meeting the requirements of transitional planning for youth.

Assessments for young adults 18 to 21 may be completed using the CLSA, if appropriate. However, the focus for young adults who seek LINKS services is typically about one or more life crises that they are struggling to handle. In these situations, informal assessments conducted in an interview/discussion are frequently more appropriate. The discussion should be documented in the case narrative. Some of the issues to be addressed in the discussion are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is the young adult’s overall assessment of the crisis? • What has he/she tried so far? How did that work? • What does he/she think is needed which would help to work through this situation both now as well as in the future? Assess with the young adult additional resources that may be available. The plan should address both the short term “fix” and long-term problem avoidance. For example, a loan or grant may help a money shortfall, but assistance with budgeting may prevent a similar shortfall in the future. • What part of this solution does he/she need the agency to do, and what part is he/she willing to do in resolving this situation? • How will the young adult and agency know if the plan is working? When does the plan need to be reviewed? The results of this discussion will be formulated into a plan that reflects the description of the statement, resources that will be used, the young adult’s and agency’s activities that will contribute to resolution of the problem, time frames for review, and dated signatures of the young adult and agency representative. Transitional Living Plans for Youth Ages 14-21 Transitional Living Plans are required for young people age 14 and older in the custody of a county child welfare agency. services and continuing services, sexual health, services and resources to ensure the youth is informed and prepared to make healthy living decisions about their lives. To this end, the Transitional Living Plan - 90 Day Transition Plan for Youth in Foster Care (DSS-5096b), must be developed with the youth that includes the required elements mandated by federal law. While the Transitional Living Plan is developed to address independent living needs of the youth while in care, the 90 Day Transition Plan is considered an extension of the Transitional Living Plan, as it provides details and resources for the youth after he or she exits care. Additionally, the 90 Day Transition Plan provides the youth with a portable document regarding resources they may need when they are out of care as well as to gain information from the youth regarding their plans and contact information. The DSS-5096b Transitional Living Plan - 90 Day Transition Plan for Youth in Foster Care document captures details about the young adult’s resources – where they plan to live after exiting from foster care, their level of educational attainment, their educational or vocational plans and goals, transportation, health insurance – and provides additional resources for the young adult should they need additional supports upon exiting care. The 90 Day Transition Plan document also verifies the young adult has received the required documents prior to exiting care. The DSS-5096b Transitional Living Plan – 90 Day Transition Plan for Youth in Foster Care provides a method for counties to confirm that the young adult has been informed about the Foster Care 18 to 21 Program and the young adult’s interest in the program. This document is required for all young adults in foster care within 90 days prior to their 18th birthday. The young adult must be informed of his/her option to continue in the Foster Care 18 to 21 Program at the time the 90 Day Transition Plan is completed. The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (P.L. 111-148) also requires the plan to include information on the importance of designating someone to make health care treatment decisions on behalf of the youth if the youth is unable to do so and does not have or want a relative who would otherwise be so designated under North Carolina law to make such decisions. This requirement provides the youth with an option to execute a health care power of attorney or health care proxy. The North Carolina Department of Secretary of State maintains an Advance Health Care Directive Registry which provides a document for those who wish to execute a health care power of attorney. The document entitled, “Health Care Power of Attorney” may be accessed at: https://www.sosnc.gov/forms/by_title/advance_healthcare_directives. Counties must ensure that information is provided that assists the youth in clearly understanding that the individual designated as their health care agent will have broad powers to make health care decisions for the youth when the youth is unable to make those decisions or cannot communicate their decision to other people. It is important that the youth and the person they designate as their health care

agent discuss the youth’s wishes concerning life-prolonging measures, mental health treatment, and other health care decisions. Except for any specific limitations or restrictions expressed, the youth’s health care agent may make any health care decision the youth could make for themselves. The 90 Day Transition Plan meeting for young adults approaching their 18th birthday should be structured as a Child and Family Team Meeting, which creates an environment in which youth can invite their family and other support persons to help finalize this plan. For information on the Child and Family Team Meetings, please refer to Cross Function Topics in the NC Child Welfare manual. While the 90 Day Transition Plan is to be developed 90 days prior to the youth exiting foster care, counties should prepare and fully engage a youth in his or her plan development well in advance of the 90-day period. The social worker may meet with a youth to discuss the plan’s purpose and the importance of how the youth is expected to participate in the development of the plan, who they can invite to the planning sessions to represent their needs, how it differs and is similar to the Transitional Living Plan, and what topics can and will be discussed. For instance, it may take more than one planning session to develop the final 90 Day Transition Plan as there are several aspects to the plan such as housing, health insurance, transportation, education, and employment. Counties may find it useful to utilize their LINKS support groups and/or SaySo to develop youth led recommendations on what youth need to know prior to the transition planning session. These activities and recommendations will assist the youth in developing their own plans of emancipation. On page one of the document, the agency must indicate whether the Foster Care 18 to 21 Program has been explained to the young adult and whether the young adult wishes to participate. Referral information for agencies, which includes contact information, should be prepared by the social worker, based on where the young adult intends to live after discharge. The Families First Prevention Services Act (Public Law 115-123) Section 475(5)(I) was enacted on February 9, 2018. The law requires county child welfare agencies to provide official documentation to prove the young adult was in foster care before they age out of care. Per Public Law 113-183 and Public Law 115-123, the agency must make arrangements to have the following documents available to give to the young adult at the time of the meeting: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Verification Letter – Proof of Child’s Placement in Foster Care • Original or certified copy of the youth’s birth certificate (https://vitalrecords.nc.gov/) • A Social Security card issued by the Commissioner of Social Security (http://www.socialsecurity.gov/online/ss-5.pdf)

Significant concern exists that foster children are vulnerable to being victimized by identity theft because their personal information passes through many hands, increasing the chances that someone will open an account in their name or use their Social Security number. Since children typically have no credit records, it makes it easier for thieves to link their unused Social Security numbers to other names and birth dates. Most parents, caretakers and foster parents see no reason to suspect a problem, which means the theft can go undetected for years. In some instances the suspected theft may be someone of the youth’s own family or a foster parent. Additionally, youth may voluntarily allow a family member or friend to obtain credit or services in their name with the assumption that the bills will be paid in a timely manner because they are not aware of the consequences of damaged credit. As a result, youth who age out of care may be greatly challenged by credit issues upon exiting the system. Additionally, they lack a support system to help them resolve their credit issues. These problems hinder the youth’s ability to access resources and obtain basic services such as housing, transportation and employment, thus thwarting their successful transition to adulthood. To this end, federal legislation requires that each child in foster care under the responsibility of the State who has attained 14 years of age receives without cost a copy of any consumer credit report year until they are discharged from foster care and must be assisted (including, when feasible from their court-appointed advocate) in interpreting the credit report and resolving any inaccuracies in the report. Counties are strongly encouraged to maintain this requirement for youth who sign Contractual Agreements for Residential Services. While the legislation mandates that the credit checks begin at age 14, there is nothing that precludes the local child welfare agency from implementing this requirement for younger youth in care, particularly if there is suspicion that the youth is a victim of identity theft. It is important to note that this is a two-step mandate for the local child welfare agency: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. provide the credit report; and 2. provide any needed assistance in resolving any inaccuracies with the report. The intent is for the child welfare agency to work with the youth in reviewing the credit report, resolve any issues and help the youth understand the importance of conducting a credit check so that they will continue the practice upon their exit from care. Counties may collaborate and/or contract with community-based providers to fulfill this requirement. A copy of the credit report must be placed in the youth’s case file as well as evidence of discussion with the youth about the report and efforts to resolve any inconsistencies. Planning for obtaining the credit report should be included in the youth’s Transitional Living Plan as well as the 90 Day Transition Plan. For more information on obtaining a free credit report visit the Federal Trade Commission consumer fact website at http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/consumer/credit/cre34.shtm.

LINKS SERVICES TO YOUTH Youth in Foster Care Ages 13-18 Counties will serve all youth in this age group who are in foster care. Public Law 113-183 requires states to provide services to youths in care ages 14 and older that will assist the youths to make the transition from foster care to successful adulthood. North Carolina’s Child and Family Services Plan designates all teenagers in foster care as being “at risk of remaining in care until they are 18,” thus making the eligibility pool for LINKS services very broad. Developmentally, young people in this age group are more interested in peers and group activities than are older teens. They are often more open to exploring the resources that will be available to them, and usually respond well to opportunities to do so. They enjoy activities that will help to prepare them to handle responsibilities, such as role playing the experience of being in a judicial review hearing. They like to volunteer, particularly when volunteering genuinely helps other people. By serving this age group, agencies have an earlier start in assuring that young people have and will continue to seek out strong personal support systems, and in helping youth explore family and other adult relationships that youth find supportive. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Among the activities included in services to youth 13-15 are: • An individualized life skills assessment designed for younger adolescents and completed by the youth and caregiver. The assessment identifies strengths and needs for life skills training and the need for other learning opportunities; • With the youth, developing written service agreements specifying the responsibilities of the agency and youth to accomplish immediate and intermediate goals that lead toward successful transitions to adulthood as well as implementation of services identified as needed by the youth and agency to achieve the goals; Note: Youth 12 years and older have the legal right to be involved in the development of the service plans if they are cognitively and emotionally able to participate. Agencies are encouraged to have youth take on a leadership role in their planning meetings. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Life skills training based on training needs determined by the written assessment; • Agency or contracted services that are provided to help youth to overcome barriers that are interfering with achievement of educational or vocational goals, self-sufficiency, relationships with family and significant others, etc.; • Specific activities to develop and strengthen the youth's personal support system;

While a youth may refuse to engage in services, the local child welfare must offer services on an ongoing and frequent basis. A youth is more likely to engage in LINKS services if the services are relevant to his or her life. When circumstances or opportunities help to make that connection, the social worker or care provider should make a point to engage or re-engage the youth in services. It is a federally required for youth to be fully involved in designing and implementing LINKS services for LINKS funds to be provided. Among the activities included in services to youth 16-18 are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An individualized assessment by the youth and caregiver that identifies strengths and needs in self-sufficiency skills as well as other areas relevant to adult functioning; • With the youth, developing written individual transitional plans spelling out the responsibility of the agency and youth to accomplish a successful transition to self-sufficiency. Transitional plans are developed concurrently with the service agreements.

The Contractual Agreement for Residential Services (CARS) (DSS-5108a) is a voluntary agreement between the young adult and the agency that allows for State foster care board payment to a licensed foster care facility. The young adult is not in the child welfare agency’s custody. Rather they have voluntarily agreed to be in the agency’s placement authority for the duration of the agreement. A CARS agreement differs from a VPA agreement in that the young adult, rather than his parents or guardian, is exercising his legal authority to request the placement arrangement. A CARS agreement is a voluntary agreement between the young adult and the agency. The agency agrees to provide payment to assist with the cost of housing while the young adult is in an academic or vocational training program, and to provide foster care services and other services for which the young adult is eligible. The state pays half the standard board rate and the county pays the balance of cost of care. The agreement clarifies that the young adult’s eligibility for LINKS services, including <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • LINKS Transitional assistance, scholarship assistance through the ETV or Postsecondary Educational Support Scholarship, and eligibility for the Extended Foster Care Medicaid program are not contingent upon nor related in any way to the young adult’s participation in a CARS agreement. • The young adult agrees to “remain enrolled in a full-time program of academic or vocational training, or accepted for full-time enrollment for the next term in an academic or vocational program in order for foster care assistance payments to be paid on his/her behalf.” The young adult further agrees to “discuss any problems arising from the placement with the social worker, and to handle his/her responsibility to work through any problems that are within the young adult’s control.” The young adult further agrees to “notify the agency and placement provider in advance if he/she decides to leave school, the vocational program, or foster care.” • When a young adult elects to terminate the 18-21 agreement, the process can move forward. The young adult can notify the agency of termination verbally or in writing. The agency must document in the young adult’s case record the method in which the young adult terminates the agreement. • When the county agency decides to terminate the agreement and the young person disagrees, a motion for review must be filed for the courts to make a resolution. There are no criteria for what the court should consider when resolving whether to terminate.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If the agreement is not terminated by one of the parties, it will automatically be terminated on the young adult’s twenty-first birthday. FOSTER CARE SERVICES PROVIDED TO YOUNG ADULTS ON CARS Agency Reviews When a foster youth is 18-21 years of age and signs a CARS agreement, he or she is participating as an equal party in a contractual agreement with the local child welfare agency. The Out of Home Services Agreement form is no longer appropriate or required. However, it is important to meet regularly with the young adult to assure that the conditions of the agreement are met and that the young adult is on track for his or her transition to self-sufficiency. Agency reviews of the agreement should be conducted every six months in a format similar to the Child and Family Teams. Persons involved with the young adult (employer, caregiver, representative of school, friends, family, et cetera) should be invited by the young adult to these planning sessions. Agency participation should include the social worker, supervisor, LINKS liaison in addition to any community representatives that may have relevant input. Six-month reviews offer a formal opportunity to review the living arrangement and to make rule modifications as appropriate, to consider the effectiveness of services provided by the agency and to modify the services provided. Form - DSS 5108A gives structure to the CARS review. Assessments The Casey Life Skills Assessment is an appropriate tool to help young adults track their progress toward mastery of life skills and to arrange for additional assistance as needed. Assessments should be completed every six months, prior to the CARS review. These assessments can be accessed on line at: http://www.caseylifeskills.org/. Services Young adults on CARS agreements remain eligible for all LINKS services and resources, and will continue to be eligible until age 21 regardless of their status on CARS. The LINKS liaison is normally assigned as agency contact, although this decision is made by the county agency. A menu of service options includes but are not limited to:

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Involvement with ongoing LINKS activities at the agency, especially as youth leaders; • Life skill training; • Crisis management; • Assistance to strengthen personal support system; • Assistance in obtaining employment; • Negotiation with employers, creditors, placement providers, etc.; • Accessing LINKS Special Funds for transitional needs; and • Information and referral to appropriate community resources. LINKS Coordinators are usually a good resource to help young adults to become familiar with resources that can help them achieve positive outcomes. Workforce Investment Programs for young adults, Vocational Rehabilitation, state and federal scholarship programs and community college programs are just a few of the community-based resources outside of the local child welfare agency that can help students transition successfully, and collaboration between the local child welfare agency and these agencies should be maintained. LINKS liaisons are tracking data on young adults who age out of county custody and should be informed of any changes in the CARS agreement or in the student’s situation. Paying for the Cost of Care on CARS Often, older youth age out of foster care in a therapeutic placement that costs significantly more than the standard board rate. Whenever possible, the agency should plan ahead to step the youth down to a less structured placement well before their 18th birthday. Most therapeutic foster care placements are highly structured and do not allow youth sufficient opportunity to develop the life skills and experiences needed to transition successfully. While IV-E funding may have been used to help with the costs of placement

prior to the youth’s 18th birthday, these funds cannot be used to pay for the young adult’s placement beyond the 18th birthday unless the young adult qualifies for mental health residential treatment as an adult. The county typically pays the difference between the placement costs and the state contribution to the board payment. Placement in Unlicensed Homes There are circumstances in which the young adult student can live with a suitable relative or unrelated adult while he is in school if the provider receives some help with the cost of care. State foster home funds cannot be used to help pay for these placements unless and until the care provider is licensed as a foster parent, but counties can use county funds for this purpose if they choose to do so. If the youth is working and can contribute to the cost of room and board, this is a good way to help them learn about costs of living. If the student is receiving ETV or the new Postsecondary Education Support Scholarship, housing costs can be included as costs of attendance. LINKS Housing funds can also be used to offset these costs, up to the allowable limit. These arrangements are not CARS Agreements, and there are no state requirements for reviews. Counties are required to provide services to all young adults who aged out of their county custody, so requirements for offering LINKS services continue regardless of the placement. PERMANENCY FOR ADOLESCENTS Development of Permanent Placement Resources Successful adoption recruitment strategies for teens are very different from those directed at locating families for younger children. Traditional adoption recruitment efforts tend to attract families seeking to adopt infants and young children. If those same strategies are used to attempt to attract families interested in adopting teens, the rate of success is minimal. There are logical reasons for this: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Teens in foster care are, first and foremost, teenagers. Average teens from average families are at a developmental stage that is typified by pulling away from family, not by joining into a family. • Teens in foster care are unfairly prejudged as being emotionally disturbed, delinquent, violent, and/or generally incapable of being part of a family.

Adolescent Services: NC LINKS

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Many adoption recruitment workers would rather put their energies in getting more younger children adopted, rather than focusing on the few teens who need adoptive placement. • Most families would not consider adopting a teen unless they knew him or her personally. • Most teens would not consider being adopted, unless they knew the potential adoptive parent personally. • Many teens resist the concept of adoption for a variety of reasons: they may not want to change their name (although they do not have to do so), or they may feel that accepting adoption means that they would not see their relatives again, (although this may be worked out). They may feel that they do not deserve a permanent home. They may be concerned that if they agree to adoption, no family would step forward to provide a permanent home for them. They do not want to be rejected again. • Many agencies do not make a concentrated effort to help teens to create new connections with caring adults, nor do they ask the youth to help them identify adults that they already know and trust. General Recruitment for Permanent Homes As with all recruitment efforts, outreach efforts should be targeted to the communities that have a racial, ethnic, racial, religious, and cultural background similar to the youth for whom we are recruiting. Educational presentations should be held to advertise the need to find permanent homes for teens and preteens. The specified purpose of these events is to encourage the community to help to prevent homelessness of teens exiting the system. We know that youth leaving the foster care system as adults without strong personal support systems are much more likely to face homelessness than those who do have these relationships. During these presentations prospective adoptive parents should be given an opportunity to hear directly from adolescents in foster care and to learn about the type of “parenting” that is needed by these teens. Advertising for these events are distributed where the people are likely to see them: supermarket bulletin boards, ethnic newspapers and media, leaflets in restaurants, announcements in churches, mosques, and synagogues, within tribal organizations, etc.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Youth-Specific Recruitment All teens in foster care have some emotional attachments to others in order to have survived. They have created their own “families.” These “families” may consist of friends, parents of friends, current and/or former foster parents, teachers, coaches, cottage parents, maintenance staff, relatives, older siblings or friends who are now adults, neighbors, church members, Guardians ad Litem, social workers, employers, counselors, etc. We need to ask these youth about these connections and to help them strengthen these relationships. There are often more than a dozen people currently in each youth’s life that could be approached about offering a permanent home to the youth. Asking youth to invite persons of their own choosing to participate in their planning reviews helps us to know who some of these people are. In addition to identifying existing resources, we have the responsibility to help youth to develop connections that may develop into lifelong supportive relationships. Some of the program activities that can help this process are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • establishing a mentor program within the LINKS program, matching the youth with a volunteer who has similar interests; • researching the interest of relatives, neighbors, and friends who were once involved with the youth as a younger child but have since lost contact; • contacting older siblings who are now on their own; • helping the youth to develop Eco-maps to identify their support systems; • involving youth in volunteer activities that also engage adult volunteers from faith and civic groups, such as blood drives, environmental restoration, working one on one with disabled children, fund drives for community recreation programs, etc.; and • involving community persons in the LINKS program as volunteers. Even if these activities or efforts do not result in adoptive placements, they will help youth to develop the kinds of friendships and supports that they will need as adults.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Adult Adoptions North Carolina’s adoption law does not restrict adoption to children. Adults may also be adopted. For purposes of the adoption law, an adult is defined as an individual who is at least 18 years old, or, if under the age of 18, is either legally married or has been emancipated under applicable state law. County child welfare agencies are responsible for facilitating the adult adoption of a young adult receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services in accordance with the provisions of N.C.G.S. §48, Article 5. For more information on adult adoptions see Adoptions in the NC Child Welfare manual. TRAINING FOR STAFF AND FOSTER / ADOPTIVE PARENTS The Chafee Act requires that agency staff, foster parents and other providers who work with adolescents receive training specific to working with teens. This training should also be made available to adoptive parents who either have adopted or who are planning to adopt a teen. Training should include topics such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Normal child and youth development; • How child and youth development are influenced by the foster care experience; • Strategies to help children and youth successfully handle the impact of abuse, neglect, and placement disruptions; • Co-parenting with the child/youth’s biological family in order to improve family connections even for youth who are not reunified with their family; • Establishing a mentoring relationship with teens; • Appropriate discipline; helping teens build self-discipline; • Accessing community resources for teens and their caregivers; • Using “teaching moments” to impart needed information;

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Talking with teens about difficult subjects, such as relationships, sexuality, sexual orientation, substance abuse, risk avoidance; • Helping teens to identify and strengthen their personal support systems; • Encouraging teens to identify and build on their own strengths and interests; and • The caregiver’s role in implementing transitional plans. Note: Agencies must use Title IV-E Training funds designated for training adults, since LINKS funds cannot be used to train social workers, foster parents, or other adults in a caregiving role. PLACEMENT SERVICES FOR FOSTER AND ADOPTIVE PARENTS Raising an adolescent is a challenging, rewarding, frustrating, exhausting, and exhilarating experience for anyone. Foster and adoptive parent support groups, buddy systems pairing experienced and new foster or adoptive parents, foster parent associations and community resources are extremely important resources that help adoptive and foster placements avoid disruptions. Similarly, youth need opportunities to withdraw for short periods in order to deal with the frustrations and anxieties that accompany being in a foster or adoptive placement. Visits with families and friends, and sponsored participation in conferences, workshops and camps offer needed breaks while providing new information and skill building. INDEPENDENT LIVING AS A COORDINATED SERVICE OF FOSTER CARE Every child who experiences out-of-home care, from toddler to teen, should receive developmentally appropriate training and exposure to experiences that encourage the consistent development of independent living skills. While LINKS Funds cannot be used to provide such services before the child is 13 years of age, foster parents and social workers can address the need by intentionally creating opportunities for the child to learn how to make good choices, to become self-confident, to handle personal responsibility, and to develop a network of resources. A key to helping youth in foster care placement develop adult living skills and attitudes is the positive attitude of the worker. Often youth lose developmentally critical information due to placement instability. It is easy to overlook the possibility that youth may not

have been exposed to common life experiences, and easier yet to interpret that their failure to participate in simple tasks is due to a lack of motivation or rebellion, rather than a lack of information. Some agencies are concerned that eligible youth do not want to participate in their LINKS programs. Perhaps the most critical step in developing or redesigning LINKS services is the meaningful involvement of the youth to be served. For programs with 8 or more eligible participants, this could take the form of establishing a youth advisory committee made up of natural youth leaders who perform an integral role in the development of the program to be offered. Natural leaders are those to whom other youth look for leadership. This may or may not coincide with the adult’s perspective of leadership qualities. These youth advisors will learn from their role as leaders, organizers and implementers. Participating youth appreciate their voice being heard. Even mistakes provide excellent teaching opportunities, and youth learn that failure is not fatal. Staff members should promote flexibility in programming, so long as the basic general purposes of the LINKS program are being addressed. For all programs, youth involvement also means meeting with individual youth, their supporters, and their service providers to identify goals and activities that will help youth to achieve self-sufficiency. Some aspects of LINKS programming are best accomplished through group activities. For most counties with few eligible youth, group services are not usually offered. There are ways to create groups even in the smallest counties, and agencies are encouraged to do so. Some options are to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • co-sponsor a group with another agency that serves teenagers, such as schools, Workforce Investment Act programs, 4-H, Mental Health or Community Based Alternatives. Costs above and beyond those incurred by eligible youth may not be paid with LINKS funds. • co-sponsor a group with neighboring county LINKS programs, planning for monthly, quarterly and/or semiannual youth events. Small counties may qualify for salary supplements if the participating counties serve a combined total of 9 or more eligible youth ages 16 to 21 and/or aged out young adults. • encourage youth in agency custody to participate in skills courses through schools, agricultural extension programs, recreation programs, community resource centers, and other such programs.

TRACKING OUTCOMES One requirement of the Chafee Foster Care Independence Act is to participate in national evaluations of the effectiveness of services provided in achieving the purpose of the Chafee Foster Care Independence Program. A critical component of these evaluations is the collection of data regarding outcomes as well as data regarding the specific services provided to youth through the program. County child welfare agencies that receive federal funds through the LINKS program share in the responsibility of gathering and reporting this information. The National Youth in Transition Database (NYTD) (http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/cb/systems/nytd/about_nytd.htm) is the data reporting system that will be used to determine the relationship between the types and intensity of services and the outcomes achieved. In addition to tracking the data required by NYTD, counties may wish to begin tracking their own longitudinal data on teens who participate in the LINKS program, including the types of services provided by the agency and the outcomes achieved as young adults. Demographic Information: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Name / SIS ID • Gender • Race • Ethnicity • Date of Birth • Date of Entry into Foster Care (most recent episode) • Whether or not the youth is a member of a Federally recognized Indian tribe • Marital status • Number of children parented by this individual • Last grade completed

PURPOSE For many young people in foster care, not having a license to drive is a barrier to education, health care, employment, and other activities that promote independence. To address this barrier, Session Law 2017-41 directed the North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Social Services to establish a two-year pilot project to assist youth in foster care in obtaining their learner’s permits or driver’s licenses. In collaboration with county child welfare agencies, former foster youth, family partners, and other stakeholders, the Division created Transportation Really Is Possible (TRIP) to serve as the pilot project designated by Session Law 2017-41. The purpose of TRIP is to provide, on a first-come, first-served basis, funding to support young people and caregivers with costs associated with obtaining a learner’s permit or driver’s license. Reimbursement is provided based on availability of funds. ELIGIBILITY OF YOUTH AND CAREGIVERS a. For these youth, driving is not merely a privilege, but a route to independence. Thoughtful planning between the county child welfare agency, the young person, and the caregiver to ensure the young person is prepared to assume the responsibility of driving is key to addressing this barrier to independence. To assess readiness, county child welfare agencies should work with youth (under age 18) and their caregivers to complete the TRIP Readiness assessment. The assessment facilitates discussion about safety issues related to medical, mental health, or emotional conditions, substance use, and other areas that may impact a young person’s judgement and safety behind the wheel. This assessment tool is used to facilitate a conversation about a young person’s readiness to drive and jointly plan to address barriers to a young person’s readiness. This assessment should not be used to create or contribute to barriers to driving. ELIGIBLE COSTS The following are eligible costs under the TRIP program. 1. Driver’s Education Courses a. Driver’s Education Courses Offered through Public High Schools Most public high schools in North Carolina offer driver’s education courses onsite. Public high schools in the state can charge a fee for students to take a driver’s education course. Under TRIP, costs associated with driver’s education courses offered through public high schools can be covered, if the identified school charges fees for the course and the young person is unable to obtain a waiver of the fees.

b. Driver’s Education Courses Offered through Private Driving Schools For individuals in communities where public high schools do not offer driver’s education or struggle to meet demand for the course, private driving schools present an opportunity for youth in foster care to complete the course. The cost of attending a driver’s education course through a private driving school can vary. Some schools offer complete packages that include classroom and road instruction for approximately $300 or more. Rates for private driving schools are typically broken down by the hour or by the number of sessions. Driver’s education courses through private driving schools may be an option for young people who are unable to access driver’s education through the public school system. Young people and caregivers are responsible for demonstrating to the county that driver’s education courses are not available through local public schools. 2. Learner’s Permit and Driver’s License Fees a. Learner’s Permit Fees Limited learner’s permit fees up to the amount set by the Division of Motor Vehicles. b. Once a young person has received assistance with insurance premiums through LINKS for three months or up to $650, counties may then provide additional support through TRIP. This applies to young people who obtain their own vehicle insurance policy for their own vehicle, obtain non-owner’s insurance for the operation of a caregiver or other person’s vehicle, or caregivers who have added young people to their policies. 4. Other Costs Associated For the purposes of this program, other costs associated with obtaining a driver’s license are as follows. a. Vehicle Inspection For young people obtaining their own vehicles, the cost of the state inspection required by law, within the first year of the young person obtaining, owning, and maintaining the vehicle. Fees related to vehicle inspections include safety inspection fees and emissions inspection fees (as required, depending on the vehicle). b. Registration Fees Every state requires motor vehicles to be registered and titled with the state’s transportation agency or department of motor vehicles. A vehicle registration plate, usually referred to as a license plate, is attached to a vehicle for the purposes of identification. Registration fees are the annual fees associated with maintaining a vehicle’s registration and license plate. TRIP can cover registration fees up to the cost of the registration if a young person is acquiring their own vehicle. These costs are eligible under TRIP within the first year of the young person obtaining, owning, and maintaining the vehicle. c. Taxes The cost of North Carolina vehicle property taxes, only if a young person is paying for their own vehicle or otherwise responsible for paying this cost. This cost is eligible under TRIP within the first year of the young person obtaining, owning, and maintaining the vehicle. d. Additional Fees For young people who may not have access to a vehicle for taking the driver’s test at a local Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), fees associated with paying a private driving school for access to a vehicle for this test are eligible under TRIP.

e. Incentives for Caregivers Caregivers may be provided an incentive from $75 up to $100 for allowing a young person to use their vehicle for the driver’s test to obtain their learner’s permit or driver’s license. TRIP will not cover costs associated with any damages to the vehicle caused by the young person during the driver’s test. f. Vehicle History Report For young people obtaining vehicles, the cost of vehicle history reports (Carfax, AutoCheck, etc.) up to $100. This cost is eligible under TRIP when such a report is not provided by the owner or dealership selling the vehicle. APPLICATION, REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION, AND REIMBURSEMENT PROCESS Young people do not have to incur driving-related costs to be eligible for assistance through TRIP. County child welfare agencies may pay for an eligible cost on behalf of a young person and receive reimbursement from the State. However, if a young person has incurred a cost for an eligible driving-related expense, they may request reimbursement through TRIP. To request reimbursement through TRIP, a caregiver must incur an eligible driving related cost, outlined in Eligible Costs and submit the required documentation to the county child welfare agency to request reimbursement. Counties will provide reimbursement to the eligible young person or caregiver for eligible costs incurred, and then submit a request for reimbursement to the Division of Social Services. Reimbursement is provided based on availability of funds. Steps Young People or Caregivers Must Take In addition to meeting the eligibility criteria previously described, young people or caregivers must provide the following documents to the county child welfare agency to receive reimbursement: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Receipts of eligible costs incurred, if applicable • Documentation of enrollment in driver’s education enrollment / documentation of course completion

Foster Care 18 to 21

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Foster Care 18 to 21 is a program that offers young adults opportunities to continue foster care placement and transition to independence with county child welfare agency supervision. There are some young adults who may not be ready to exit foster care upon turning 18 years of age, and may choose to stay in Foster Care 18 to 21 as long as certain requirements are met. Young adults who exit foster care at age 18 are also able to return to the Foster Care 18 to 21 program at a later date as long as they have not reached their 21st birthday. County child welfare agencies are responsible for providing eligible young adults who enter into an agreement for Foster Care 18 to 21 services with ongoing efforts to help prepare and ensure the young adult’s successful transition into adulthood. This policy defines the legal basis for providing foster care benefits and services to young adults, as well as eligibility requirements, development of the Voluntary Placement Agreement (VPA), county oversight, required court hearings, and placement options for young adults receiving services. LEGAL BASIS In 2008 the Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act (H.R. 6893/P.L. 110-351) allowed states to receive federal Title IV-E reimbursement for costs associated with supports for young adults to remain in foster care up to age 21. In 2015 the North Carolina General Assembly revised N.C.G.S. §108A-48 to extend the provision of benefits under this statute to young adults between 18 and 21 years of age effective January 1, 2017. In addition, N.C.G.S. § 131D-10.2B provides authority under which young adults who turn 18 in foster care can continue to receive foster care services until the age of 21 through the Foster Care 18 to 21 program. ELIGIBILITY AND FUNDING Program Eligibility Criteria Young adults who were in foster care upon their 18th birthday may continue to receive foster care benefits and services up to 21 years of age as long as one of the following criteria is met on an ongoing basis (N.C.G.S. §108A-48(c)): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Completing high school or a program leading to an equivalent credential; or

County child welfare agencies are held harmless from contributing fifty percent (50%) of the nonfederal share of the cost for an individual receiving benefits pursuant to N.C.G.S. § 108A-48(c). Note: The young adult does not have to be placed in a licensed foster care facility in order to be IV-E eligible. Foster Care Maintenance Payments All young adults in Foster Care 18 to 21 remain eligible for foster care maintenance payments. Maintenance payments can be made to a licensed foster parent, child placement agency, foster care facility, or a relative or host family. The individual receiving the maintenance payment is not required to be a licensed foster parent. Maintenance payments can also be paid directly to the young adult whether he or she is residing in a licensed or unlicensed placement setting. The county child welfare agency is responsible for conducting individual assessments to determine if this is in the young adult’s best interest. If payments are paid directly to the young adult, financial management must be a goal on his or her Transitional Living Plan, and the agency must work closely with the young adult to ensure that he or she is budgeting the money appropriately. Maintenance payments may cover room and board/rent and other living costs the young adult may have.

Healthcare Eligibility The Affordable Care Act (ACA) extends Medicaid coverage to youth aging out of foster care on or after their 18th birthday, to age 26. Individuals who turn age 18 while in foster care continue to be eligible for Medicaid. To qualify, young adults must meet all of the following criteria: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Age 18 to 26 • In foster care at age 18 and enrolled in NC Medicaid • A resident of North Carolina • Not receiving Medicaid from any other state • Not an inmate of a public institution All young adults aging out of foster care must be referred to their local Medicaid office to apply for continuing healthcare coverage. Young Adults Receiving Social Security Benefits Young adults receiving Social Security Administration (SSA) benefits, such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI), or Retirement, Survivors, Disability Insurance (RSDI), or other monthly benefits designated for the young adult’s care and support, does not affect his or her eligibility for Foster Care 18 to 21 benefits. Once the young adult turns 18 years of age, he or she becomes the payee for all benefits. In these cases, the young adult’s Transitional Living Plan should reflect goals and activities geared towards financial management. It is the responsibility of the county child welfare agency to assist the young adult with managing the SSA benefits to ensure his or her financial needs are met. Education and Training Vouchers and NC Reach Young adults participating in Foster Care 18 to 21 services may be eligible to receive Education/Training Vouchers (ETVs) and NC Reach Scholarships to defray the costs of attending postsecondary education or vocational training institutions. ETVs cannot pay for items which the foster care maintenance payment covers, such as housing and food. ETVs can be used to pay for tuition, fees, books, computers, etc. For more information, visit the ETV website: http://www.fc2sprograms.org/.

NC Reach provides state-funded grants to young adults who were in foster care upon their 18th birthday. Young adults receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 benefits can use the funding to attend public community colleges and universities in North Carolina. These funds can be used to pay for tuition, fees, books, and room and board. The foster care maintenance payments can then be used for other living expenses. For more information, visit the NC Reach website: www.ncreach.org. TEMPORARY BREAKS IN PARTICIPATION It is likely there will be times when young adults will be in transition between eligibility requirements. For example, a young adult may lose a job, or have to quit school for medical reasons. These circumstances alone do not make young adults ineligible for Foster Care 18 to 21 services. As long as the young adult is still working towards goals on his/her Transitional Living Plan, a setback does not automatically disqualify them from the program. A fully developed backup plan must be included in the young adult’s Transitional Living Plan to address unexpected gaps in eligibility. Participation in a program or activity designed to promote or remove barriers to employment, can be used during such breaks in participation. In addition, medical conditions/disabilities that prevent the young adult from meeting the education and employment requirements can be used when temporary medical issues arise. Scheduled school breaks do not affect the eligibility status of young adults in Foster Care 18 to 21 as long as they are enrolling for the following semester. Young adults can continue to receive benefits and services up to 60 days following the break in participation. During this time, the young adult must make reasonable efforts to meet at least one of the eligibility requirements for the Foster Care 18 to 21 program. If the 60-day mark is approaching and/or the young adult is not making reasonable efforts to meet an eligibility requirement, a Transition Support Team (TST) meeting must be held to develop a plan and determine if the case needs to be reviewed in court and termination of services requested. TEMPORARY ABSENCES FROM PLACEMENT Temporary absences from placement are those in which a young adult is absent from his or her approved placement on a short-term basis, and intends to return to the same placement. These absences are different from a young adult leaving foster care with no concrete intentions of returning, yet later opts to re-enter Foster Care 18 to 21. Examples of temporary absences from placement include short-term hospitalizations, family visits, or vacations.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
During a temporary absence from placement, a young adult may continue to receive Title IV-E Foster Care Maintenance payments if the absence does not exceed 14 days. An absence that exceeds 14 days, can either be a suspension of services or a termination of services. a. Suspension of Services: A suspension of services occurs when the young adult has been away from his or her placement for more than 14 days with a valid explanation and has communicated his or her intent to return to the program. In addition, the young adult continues to meet at least one eligibility requirement for Foster Care 18 to 21 services. The extended absence must be approved by the county child welfare agency. Foster Care 18 to 21 services are temporarily suspended, however, foster care maintenance payments may continue. SFHF can be used to cover the amount of days the young adult is absent beyond 14 days and up to 30 days. b. Termination of Services: Termination of services occurs when the young adult has been away from his or her placement for 14 or more days without approval from the county child welfare agency. In addition, the young adult has not communicated his or her intent to return to the placement. Foster care maintenance payments must be terminated immediately, and a court review hearing must be held to terminate Foster Care 18 to 21 services. LEGAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR PLACEMENT Young adults receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services are adults for all purposes except the continued provision of foster care services. These young adults need the same degree of independence and decision making that other young adults over age 18 are granted. A young adult who is at least 18 years of age but less than 21 years of age and was in the custody of a county child welfare agency upon reaching his or her 18th birthday, must enter into a Voluntary Placement Agreement with the county child welfare agency in order to receive Foster Care 18 to 21 services. The court will hold an initial review hearing and may periodically review placement and services for young adults receiving services.

VOLUNTARY PLACEMENT AGREEMENT When a young adult opts to receive Foster Care 18 to 21 services, a Voluntary Placement Agreement must be discussed with and signed by the young adult, as well as the director of the county child welfare agency. The young adult is an equal party in the contractual agreement and must agree to the provisions of the agreement. The Voluntary Placement Agreement gives the county child welfare agency authority to continue placement responsibility and provide foster care services to the young adult. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The agreement must be signed within the month of the young adult’s 18th birthday, or at time of re-entry into Foster Care 18 to 21. 2. If the agreement is signed before the young adult’s 18th birthday, an additional signature must be obtained on or after the young adult’s 18th birthday. 3. The agreement is effective on the date of the young adult’s 18th birthday, or if the young adult is over 18 years of age, the date the agreement is signed. 4. The agreement is valid until the young adult turns 21 years of age, the young adult no longer meets eligibility criteria, the young adult terminates the agreement verbally or in writing, the court determines the young adult is not meeting the goals of the Transitional Living Plan and/or the young adult has violated the Voluntary Placement Agreement for Foster Care 18 to 21, or the young adult has been absent from his / her approved placement for more than 30 days without prior approval from the county department of social services, and the court terminates services. 5. The termination date, along with a statement as to why Foster Care 18 to 21 services were terminated must be documented on the agreement. COURT HEARINGS Court shall review the placement of the young adult in foster care 18-21 no more than 90 days from the date the voluntary placement agreement is executed. Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
The case of every young adult receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services must have a support team who is responsible for developing and reviewing the young adult’s transitional living plan on an ongoing basis. This is to be done through Transition Support Team (TST) meetings and documented on the young adult’s Transitional Living Plan. The team should be led primarily by the young adult, who plays a large role in the development and maintenance of the Transitional Living Plan with input and help of the support team. Required Transition Support Team Participants The following are required participants of a young adult’s support team: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Young adult • Social Worker • At least one person the young adult identifies as a support • Other participants may include, but are not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Service providers ○ Placement resource representative, if applicable ○ Other individuals the young adult identifies Note: The young adult must agree to each participant being a part of his or her support team. Required Timeframes for Transition Support Team Meetings TST meetings are required at the following intervals: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • within 30 days of the young adult turning 18 years of age, but prior to the initial court hearing; OR if a re-entry, within 30 days of the young adult signing the Voluntary Placement Agreement and 90 days from that date; • every three months thereafter; • no more than 90 days prior to the young adult’s 21st birthday, or planned exit from Foster Care 18 to 21; and

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • whenever there is a significant change in circumstances, or a break in participation. Note: Young adults can request to meet with their Transition Support Team more frequently than required. Purpose of the Transition Support Team Meetings The primary purpose of the Transition Support Team is to provide support to the young adult in developing and achieving the goals identified on his or her Transitional Living Plan. During these meetings, the support team must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ensure the young adult has a sufficient social support system in place; • Review the short and long-term goals identified by the young adult and support team, and discuss action steps needed for the young adult to achieve those goals; • Discuss young adult’s willingness to actively participate in an education program and/or employment in order to meet eligibility requirements; • Development of a backup plan in the event of unexpected breaks in participation; • Other factors affecting the young adult’s transition to independence; and • Any issues/concerns the young adult would like to discuss. Young adults have the right to participate fully in every Transition Support Team meeting, and the meetings should be scheduled with consideration of the young adult’s schedule. A timely written notice must be sent to the young adult, and other participants, prior to each meeting that includes the date, time and location of the meeting. Signatures of all persons attending the TST meeting must be recorded on the Transitional Living Plan. REVIEW OF PROGRAM ELIGIBILITY

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Once program eligibility conditions have been established, the county child welfare agency is responsible for ensuring the young adult continues to meet the eligibility requirements on an ongoing basis. This is done through monthly contacts with the young adult, and information obtained is documented in the Monthly Contact Record for Foster Care 18 to 21. Written verification supporting the young adult’s eligibility must be reviewed and documented in the record every six months. The court must review cases in which the young adult fails to meet one of the eligibility requirements in N.C.G.S. § 108A-48(c) for 60 or more consecutive days and determine if services should be terminated. In addition, young adults must immediately contact the county child welfare agency concerning any changes that would affect their eligibility such as the loss of a job, withdrawal from school, or completion of a program. CREDIT CHECKS FOR YOUTH 18-21 County child welfare agencies are responsible for assisting young adults receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services with obtaining his or her credit report once every year until reaching 21 years of age. Since young adults receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services are legal adults, permission must be obtained prior to the agency accessing credit reports. Young adults also have the right to refuse this service. If a young adult does refuse assistance in obtaining his or her credit report, this must be documented on the young adult’s Transitional Living Plan. Credit reports can be accessed at www.annualcreditreport.com. The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) requires each nationwide Credit Reporting Agency (CRA) to provide adults with a free copy of their credit report once every 12 months. PLACEMENT OPTIONS Young adults receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services may reside in a licensed foster care home or facility, a college or university dormitory, or in a semi-supervised independent living setting such as an apartment or a host home. Semi-supervised independent living settings must be approved by the director of the county child welfare agency. Foster Care Home / Facility For purposes of Foster Care 18 to 21, foster care homes and facilities are defined as licensed private homes or group facilities that provide continuing full-time care for young adults who are placed there by a county child welfare agency. Types of foster care homes and facilities include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Family foster home • Therapeutic foster home • Group home

College / University Dormitory College or University Dormitory settings are buildings containing a number of private or semiprivate bedrooms for housing a number of persons in a community whose inhabitants are in school and commute to class, work, and/or other personal and social activities. These housing settings are affiliated with and managed by the College or University the young adult is attending. Dormitory settings are usually supervised by a dorm supervisor, or Resident Assistant (RA), who is responsible for conducting room checks, enforcing dorm rules, and ensuring adherence to the established norms and regulations. Semi-Supervised Independent Living Settings The definition of “Semi-Supervised Independent Living” associated with this policy is as follows: An unlicensed, least restrictive housing arrangement with approval and ongoing oversight by county child welfare agency staff and, as applicable, a contracted provider. Semi-supervised independent living settings are not licensed placements and do not have to have an identified “caretaker” or supportive adult. These placements should be selected based on the young adult’s best interest, and an individual assessment of his or her needs, goals, and personal preference. These placements allow young adults to live on their own, while still receiving support services to help them become independent and self-sufficient. For the purposes of the Foster Care 18 to 21 program, semi-supervised independent living settings may include, but are not limited to, the following:

Semi-Supervised Housing / Living Arrangement	Description
Apartment	An apartment setting is a room or suite of rooms with kitchen facilities designed as a residence and generally located in a building occupied by more than one household. This setting may include on-site management.
Other Shared Housing Setting (House, Townhome, or other Rental)	Other shared housing settings are described as a number of people living cooperatively as an unrelated family in a house with an individual or shared bedroom with a limited number of persons to a bedroom. This involves people renting a house or townhome in the community, similar to an apartment situation. This may include on-site management.
Off-Campus University Sponsored Apartments	An off-campus University Sponsored Apartment setting is a room or suite of rooms with kitchen facilities designed as a residence and generally located in a building occupied by more than one household. These specific settings are managed by the University or College to which they are associated and may include on-site management.
Non-College Dormitory	A non-college dormitory setting is a building containing a number of private or semiprivate bedrooms for housing a number of persons in a community whose inhabitants are either employed and/or in school and commute to these and other personal and social activities. This is similar to a college dorm without the relationship to an institution of higher learning. This may include on-site management.
Host Home	A host home setting is a family home with a rented room or garage apartment with access to a kitchen and preferably laundry facilities in the home. The young adult agrees to the household rules and has the independence to come and go as needed for employment, school and other personal and social activities.
Extended Relative or Family Friend	This setting is in the home of an extended relative or close family friend who is willing to allow the young adult to reside in their private residence and support the young adult in his or her transition into adulthood.

TERMINATION OF FOSTER CARE 18 TO 21 SERVICES Termination Reasons Foster Care 18 to 21 services must be terminated when: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The young adult reaches 21 years of age; or • The young adult no longer meets the eligibility criteria; or • The young adult requests that services be terminated; or • The court has determined the young adult is not meeting the goals of the Transitional Living Plan and/or the young adult has violated the Voluntary Placement Agreement for Foster Care 18 to 21; or • The young adult has been absent from his / her approved placement for more than 14 days without prior approval from the county department of social services, and the court has terminated services. In the event the young adult is refusing to live in an approved placement, is not making reasonable efforts to meet the goals on the Transitional Living Plan, refuses to participate in the development of the Transitional Living Plan or participate in Transition Support Team Meetings, has become involved in criminal activity, or has violated the Voluntary Placement Agreement, the county child welfare agency must request that the case be heard in court to determine whether or not services should be terminated. This should only be done after the county child welfare agency has made reasonable efforts to engage the young adult in services. In addition, if the young adult no longer meets the eligibility criteria, he or she is allowed a 60-day grace period in which reasonable efforts to achieve eligibility must be made on the young adult’s behalf, with the assistance of the county child welfare agency. A transition between eligibility requirements does not automatically disqualify young adults from the program, however, if the 60-day transition period is coming to an end and the young adult has not made reasonable efforts to meet eligibility requirements, the county child welfare agency must request the court to review the case and determine if the young adult’s services should be terminated.

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
Any time Foster Care 18 to 21 services are terminated by the court, a 30-day written notice of termination of services must be sent to the young adult noting that their Foster Care 18 to 21 benefits and services will terminate 30 days from the date of the notice. The young adult has the right to motion the court to review the case if he or she disagrees with the decision to terminate services. A Motion for Review (AOC-J-140) form must be attached to the 30-day notice, and can be found at the following link: http://www.nccourts.org/forms/Documents/479.pdf. Instructions on how to motion the court for review must be included in the written notice. After termination, young adults can later re-enter the Foster Care 18 to 21 program at any time prior to their 21st birthday, as long as one of the eligibility requirements in N.C.G.S. § 108A-48(c) is met. NOTE: Medicaid must be notified whenever Foster Care 18 to 21 services have been terminated. RE-ENTRY INTO EXTENDED FOSTER CARE A young adult who was in foster care upon his or her 18th birthday may re-enter Foster Care 18 to 21 any time before reaching 21 years of age. Upon exiting foster care at age 18 or older, the young adult must be provided information on how to enter the Foster Care 18 to 21 program at a later date. If the young adult does choose to return, he or she may contact the county child welfare agency that previously held custody, or the agency in the county where the young adult is currently residing. The re-entry is considered a new foster care episode and eligibility determination is required. The county child welfare agency must verify program eligibility as well as determine funding eligibility. In order to re-enter Foster Care 18 to 21, the young adult must meet the following conditions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The young adult is 18, 19, or 20 years old; • The young adult was in foster care upon his or her 18th birthday; • The young adult meets at least one of the eligibility requirements for Foster Care 18 to 21; • The young adult is willing to enter into a Voluntary Placement Agreement and abide by the provisions of the agreement; and • The young adult agrees to reside in an approved placement.

Foster Care 18 to 21

Protocol – What you must do	Guidance
If the young adult meets the above conditions, the county child welfare agency and the young adult must enter into a Voluntary Placement Agreement for Foster Care 18 to 21, and the agreement is effective the date it is signed. A Transition Support Team meeting must be held within 30 days of entering into the VPA and the Transitional Living Plan must be updated at that time. A court hearing must be held within 90 days of the date the VPA is signed. ADULT ADOPTIONS North Carolina’s adoption law does not restrict adoption to children. Adults may also be adopted. For purposes of the adoption law, an adult is defined as an individual who is at least 18 years old, or, if under the age of 18, is either legally married or has been emancipated under applicable state law. County child welfare agencies are responsible for facilitating the adult adoption of a young adult receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services in accordance with the provisions of N.C.G.S. §48, Article 5. For more information on adult adoptions see Adoptions in the NC Child Welfare manual. INTERCOUNTY PLACEMENTS AND TRANSFERS Young adults receiving Foster Care 18 to 21 services may be placed out-of-county for education and employment purposes. The placement county must continue to provide case management and supervision. County child welfare agencies can agree to courtesy supervision and must develop an Intercounty Agreement for the Provision of Foster Care 18 to 21 Services (addendum to the Voluntary Placement Agreement for Foster Care 18 to 21). Foster Care 18 to 21 cases can be transferred to the county in which the young adult resides if it is in the best interest of the young adult to do so, and both counties involved agree to the transfer. Young adults who reside in a county other than the one that he or she was in foster care as a minor, can contact either county to request to enter the Foster Care 18 to 21 program. The county that is contacted by the young adult must initiate Foster Care 18 to 21 services by entering into a Voluntary Placement Agreement with the young adult. In these instances, both counties, the county of origin as well as the county the young adult resides in, must develop an Intercounty Agreement for the Provision of Foster Care Services (addendum to the Voluntary Placement Agreement for Foster Care 18 to 21) at the time the Voluntary Placement Agreement is signed. This should be a partnership driven plan in which the young adult is involved in the planning process along with the two counties. The agreement must outline what each county will be responsible for and must be signed by each party involved. Counties must take the young adult’s best interest into consideration when developing the agreement.
